Probe Sought In Army Row

Czech Plane Attacks U.S. Military Crafts

Both Land Safely After Incident

MUNICH, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Two U. S. military planes flying near the Czechoslovak border were attacked today by a Soviet-made jet MIG, Bavarian police reported.

The State Department in Washington hours later confirmed the German report that there had been an attack on two U. S. military aircraft.

The State Department said it was unable to give details, but said both planes landed safely after the incident though the tail of one was shot up.

There were indications that U.S. Navy carrier planes from the Mediterranean fleet were those involved.

Navy Planes In Area

A U. S. 6th Fleet spokesman in London said the Navy had planes from the Mediterranean - based carriers in the area today, but "whether they were Navy planes which were attacked we do not know yet."

Bavarian border police said eyewitnesses saw the attack at 7,500 feet in hazy weather and afterwards found empty aircraft gun shells on the ground near Waldmuenchen.

The eyewitnesses were quoted as reporting:

Three planes were seen in the border area, and one of them, a Soviet-made MIG jet fighter, opened fire on the other two.

After several passes, it turned back east and disappeared in the direction of Czechoslovakia. The other two planes continued south.

Over Czech Territory

One source was quoted as saying: "They were flying in Austria and inadvertently strayed over Czech territory. They were attacked by a MIG fighter and were pretty badly shot up. They made their way to Munich."

The U. S. Navy spokesman in London said: "We had planes near the Czech border in Germany this afternoon on familiarization flights from carriers in the Mediterranean. They may well have been the planes which are said to have been shot up."

One source suggested that the witnesses may have been mistaken. There was a possibility that one of three planes flying in formation broke off to return to base, giving observers the impression it had attacked and fled.

ASKS PROBE — Rep. Thomas M. Pelly (R-Wash) asked yesterday for a probe of reports that considerable classified material is missing from files of the atomic plant at Hanford, Wash.

Pelly Claims Atom Secrets Are Missing

Congressman Seeks Inquiry At Plant At Hanford, Wash.

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Rep. Thomas M. Pelly (R-Wash) said today that "substantial quantities" of classified documents have disappeared from the Atomic Energy Commission's giant plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash.

The missing documents conceivably could relate to hydrogen bomb production, if an unofficial report about some work done there is correct.

Pelly said he had no information indicating the material was stolen by spies, but "Even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

Agree To Investigate

The congressman reported that Rep. Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, has agreed to conduct an inquiry and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford at once.

"The subject of atomic energy is too vital to the American citizen and the safety of this country to ignore the situation," Pelly said at a news conference.

While the main known function of the Hanford plant is to produce plutonium for A-bombs, there has been an unofficial report that material used in the first major hydrogen explosion—which wiped out an entire island at Eniwetok Atoll in November, 1952—was produced at Hanford.

This report, by Dr. Ralph Lapp, an atomic scientist who worked on the wartime Manhattan Project, said the material was "tritium," the heavyweight among the various forms of hydrogen.

Built During War

The billion dollar Hanford plant was built by the Army engineers during World War II and covers 400,000 acres near the Columbia River, whose waters are utilized to cool the atomic reactors, or furnaces. It employs 18,500 workers.

Pelly said he first heard that some atomic documents were missing from Hanford late last year, but at that time he considered it "just loose talk." Late last month, however, a responsible person in the State of Washington advised him that the matter merited investigation, he said.

The AEC has confirmed to him informally that atomic papers have disappeared, Pelly said, and while it did not disclose the nature of the classified material he assumed it was "top secret."

An AEC spokesman said there would be no commission comment on the situation for the time being.

Blizzard Strikes Midwest Areas

High Winds Whip Up Dust, Blotting Out Much Visibility

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (AP)—A late winter storm was carried northeastward from the Rocky Mountains by winds of gale force today bringing a blizzard to the mid-continent.

Winds of 50 to 60 miles an hour were general throughout this area whipping up one of the worst dust storms in 20 years. Visibility was zero in many places, and less than a mile in most areas.

Colorado and the western edge of Nebraska seemed to be the hardest hit. Snow drifted up to 24 inches deep in eastern Colorado. Six to eight inches of wet, blowing snow disrupted highway travel in Nebraska and hampered communications there.

Centered In Kansas

In a special afternoon bulletin the Kansas City Weather Bureau reported the center of the storm was in central Kansas. Snow, falling temperatures and high winds were the fare to the west of the storm center, while to the east rapidly rising temperatures, wind and the worst dust storm since the 1930s were reported.

At Kansas City the temperature jumped from 59 to 70 degrees in less than 30 minutes. In the next hour it dropped back to 64 degrees. At the same time the humidity dropped from 87 to 10 per cent and wind gusts jumped to 60 miles an hour. Visibility in the city was cut to three blocks.

Western Kansas cities in the Goodland and Dodge City areas had visibility cut to zero by blinding snow, mixed with dust. The mixture of dust and snow brought a brown snow storm to Garden City.

The accumulated snow was expected to be light in Kansas with the heavier fall to the west and north of that state.

High Winds Blow Dust

High winds were blowing dust over most of Oklahoma with the worst conditions in the dry west where visibility at Hollis and Enid was reduced to less than three blocks. The only appreciable snow was an inch and half at Boise City in the Panhandle.

As the storm moved to the northeast it brought rain and sleet driven by a 35 mile an hour wind to Iowa tonight accompanied by 60 miles an hour winds.

New Mexico got the first wallop from the gale last night with winds of 90 miles an hour at Carlsbad, and gusts of 100 miles an hour east of Albuquerque.

In its northeastward path the storm then dumped heavy snowfall on eastern Colorado blocking highways with drifts up to two feet and howled into Wyoming blocking all highways in the Cheyenne area. More than 100 eastbound bus pasengers were stranded in Cheyenne.

Colorado-bound trains were halted at McCook, Neb., awaiting easing of the winds and snow.

Colder weather was expected throughout the area tonight.

Wounded Officer Aided

Patrolman Vernon R. Chase, 24, Seattle police officer, lies wounded on ground outside of Greenwood branch of Seattle's First National Bank after three bandits shot their way out during a holdup yesterday. A fellow officer and nurse aid the wounded man. Another officer was killed and a third wounded in the shooting fray. The bandits escaped.

Stevens Again Clashes With Sen. M'Carthy

Blackmail Charged In Treatment Of Aide To Senator

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Army Secretary Stevens collided again today as charges and counter-charges of pressure, blackmail and lying exploded around the case of a drafted member of McCarthy's subcommittee staff.

From a bipartisan majority of McCarthy's subcommittee — three Democrats and one Republican—came a clamor for a fast investigation to get the whole story of what has been going on behind the scenes.

Turned On Pressure

What set off the latest spectacular flare-up within and around the McCarthy subcommittee was an Army report accusing the Wisconsin senator and his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, of turning on pressure for favored treatment for Pvt. David G. Schine.

Schine is Cohn's pal and was a consultant to the McCarthy committee until he was drafted into the Army last November.

McCarthy bitterly protested that the report was an attempt at "blackmail." Just as bitterly, Stevens protested McCarthy's release of an unsigned memorandum the senator said was from committee files—a memo that said Stevens had asked that the subcommittee shift its hunt for Reds from the Army to the Army, Navy and Defense Department.

"Utterly untrue," the Army secretary said.

He and McCarthy have warred before—over McCarthy's treatment of Army officers called as witnesses.

Dissension On Committee

The new row brought hot dissension within the McCarthy subcommittee. Sen. Dirksen pointed it up by accusing McCarthy of breaking an agreement with the Republican members in releasing material from the subcommittee files. He told newsmen this was "a departure from the agreement we had yesterday" at a secret meeting dealing with the Army report and Cohn.

A few minutes later McCarthy told reporters at a conference—the second of the day—he had released information from the files "very reluctantly" and only because of the release of the Army report.

The Army report at the heart of the newest clash said Cohn told Stevens he would be "through" and the Army "wrecked" if Schine was sent overseas. It said McCarthy repeatedly asked that he be assigned to the New York area, where he could assist the subcommittee on the side.

Senate sources turned loose the report last night. Today there was a chain reaction:

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) a member of the McCarthy subcommittee, summoned reporters to his office to give them a statement saying the report contained "most shocking charges" and Cohn should be fired if they were true. He said he had written McCarthy, asking for a subcommittee session to look into the charges.

A subcommittee session is unlikely, though before sometime next week.

Kentucky Demos Draft Barkley For U. S. Senate

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 12 (AP) — Kentucky Democrats today urged former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, who has spent 48 of his 76 years in public office, to offer six years more.

They launched a movement to draft him for nomination for the U. S. Senate.

The "Veep," who sat as senator for 22 years, replied he would think it over. He hopes to give his answer within two weeks.

"Kentucky and the nation need Alben Barkley in the U. S. Senate," said Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby in announcing the draft movement.

He added that a group of the party's leaders "is prepared to insist" that Barkley run.

Whetherby and other Democratic leaders have their party's interest in mind, too. They want a strong opponent for U. S. Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Republican, in the Nov. 2 election. The popular Cooper is assured renomination in the Republican primary.

Barkley, who bid unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952, said he deeply appreciated "the compliment paid me" in the proposed draft. He added:

"It puts me very naturally under a deep obligation."

But Barkley said he hadn't "made up his mind" on whether to run— question repeatedly asked him in recent months.

The "Veep's" long tenure in public office, begun as McCracken County prosecutor in 1905, was interrupted by the Republicans' presidential victory in 1952.

He stepped out after four years as vice president. He later did a television show and has been making speeches frequently throughout the country as well as supervising his farming operations. He and his wife, the former Mrs. Jane Hadley, St. Louis, Mo., widow whom he wed in 1949, have been residing at Paducah since leaving Washington.

Pray For Peace

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 12 (AP)—Gov. Sir Evelyn Baring called on all Christians in Kenya today to observe a day of prayer March 21 for an end of the anti-white Mau Mau terror.

Officer Is Killed, Bandits Flee

SEATTLE, March 12 (AP)—One policeman was wounded fatally and two other officers were hit by gunfire during a holdup of a bank in Seattle's Greenwood district today.

The slain man was identified as Patrolman Frank W. Hardy.

The armed men were reported to have made a getaway.

A bank official said the shooting started when the officers surprised the gunmen while the robbery was under way.

He said he did not know whether the robbers got away with any money.

The other two wounded policemen were Sgt. Howard M. Slessman and Patrolman Vernon R. Chase.

Army To Draft 18,000 Men In May

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 18,000 men in May.

The May quota is the same as those announced for the previous three months.

The new call brings to 1,661,430 the number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of selective service in September, 1950.

The Defense Department recently estimated that draft calls would have to rise, beginning about July, and that the higher quotas would be necessary for at least six months thereafter.

Farm Families Ousted By Fire

AUSTIN, Minn., March 12 (AP)—A southern Minnesota farm couple and families of two of their married daughters were homeless today as a result of three fires in as many days.

Wednesday flames destroyed the farm home, clothing and other possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmor Sorem and their five children near Wykoff while the Sorems were shopping.

Fire broke out Thursday in the farm home near Racine of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Bremseth, damaging the house so severely it can't be occupied until repairs are made. At the time of the blaze, Mrs. Bremseth was en route to buy clothes for her grandchildren, the Sorem children.

Early today, fire leveled the rural Brownsdale home of the Raymond Tuftes and their seven children while they were viewing damage to the Bremseths' house. Mrs. Tufte, like Mrs. Sorem, is a daughter of the Bremseths.

Wants Security Probe Completed

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today to approve transfer of $1,150,000 of departmental funds to permit completion by June 30 of investigations of possible security risks among federal employes.

The President made the request in a letter to House Speaker Martin. The transfer of funds would involve $900,000 from State Department appropriations for "government in occupied areas," $165,000 from Justice Department funds for salaries and expenses of the immigration service; and $85,000 of Treasury funds now slated for salaries and expenses of the Secret Service guard force.

Campaign Against McCarthy Spreads Into Free State

TOWSON, March 12 (AP)—A Connecticut housewive's anti-McCarthy campaign has spread to Maryland.

Six young Baltimore County women launched the campaign, writing letters to Vice President Nixon and also having them mimeographed and made available to any who want them.

The letters say The Wisconsin Republican has "recklessly accused American citizens of disloyalty" and "has undermined our democratic ideals no less than the Communists he supposedly fights."

McIntire To Seek Seat In Congress

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 12 (AP)—The personal physician to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, retired Navy Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, today announced his candidacy for a seat in Congress.

McIntire, whose home is in the San Diego Bay community of Coronado, said he would seek the Democratic nomination for the California 30th House District, now represented by Rep. Bob Wilson, a Republican.

Shell Cannister Found

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—After combing the depths of New York Harbor for a week with 14 divers for a half-million-dollar load of 14,460 shells lost when a barge capsized, the Navy today announced its first find:

A shell cannister, empty and floating on the surface.

Red Influence Hurts Hawaii Statehood Bid

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Sen. Robertson (D-Va) said today the Hawaiian Islands should not be granted U. S. statehood until "more definite progress has been made in dealing with Communist efforts to use Hawaii as a base for assaults on our democratic way of life."

Robertson told the Senate that admitting Hawaii to the Union now would "turn loose communistic aliens in the Hawaiian Islands who can flood our West Coast and permeate the entire nation."

The Virginian spoke out after the administration lost a fight against combining Hawaii with Alaska in a single statehood bill. The Senate voted 46-43 late yesterday against treating the two territories separately.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said he would continue to press nevertheless for a vote on the issue. He conceded, however, that "there's no percentage in trying to get an agreement until some of the speeches are out of the way."

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla), who opposes statehood for either territory, said at least 10 senators want to speak fully on the subject. Knowland said they will be given an opportunity to do as the Senate moves along with other business.

President Eisenhower favors statehood for Hawaii but has said he does not believe Alaska is ready for it at this time.

Nixon Won't Dodge Issues In Speech

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said today he won't dodge "the issues" when he goes on radio and TV tomorrow night to answer Adlai Stevenson's charge that the Republican party is "half Eisenhower and half McCarthy."

Nixon, designated by the GOP National Committee to make the official reply to Stevenson's blast at Miami Beach last Saturday night, speaks from 10:30 to 11 p.m. EST over facilities provided by NBC and CBS.

Frenchman Leads Irish On Parade

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP)—There'll be 8,000 Irishmen in Sunday's St. Patrick's Day parade, but who'll be leading them? A Frenchman.

Columbus des Chatelets, grand marshal of the parade, said today it's just a case of his having put on parades of all sorts for years and winning a reputation as a friend of the Irish.

The snow brought down with it particles of dust, and the result was a snow with a brown tinge.

Huge Well, Fed By Millions Of Feet Of Gas, Afire

HOBBS, N.M., March 12 (AP)—A gas well, fed by an estimated 100 million cubic feet of roaring gas every 24 hours, is burning today near Monument 10 miles southeast of here.

The well, Sinclair Oil Co. Barber No. 13, caught on fire at 8:45 p.m. last night.

The gas burning is enough for the daily supply of a city of 350,000 population—about the size of Fort Worth, Texas.

Winds up to 62 miles an hour whipped the flames last night, making firefighting hazardous. The wind was blowing about 40 m.p.h. today.

Roar of the fire was audible several miles, and the flames were visible for about 11 miles.

Brazil Backs Anti-Red Plans

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 12 (AP)—Brazil today threw its unconditional support behind the U.S. plan to fight communism in the Americas.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, apparently confident that a major diplomatic victory was assured at the 10th Inter-American conference, announced he would leave for home "sometime tomorrow."

But one of the toughest problems still facing the United States remained unsolved—how to satisfy Latin-America's insistent demands for economic help. That one seemed to be getting bigger by the minute.

The conference devoted its major efforts today to finishing up work on the anti-Communist measure so a vote can be taken on Saturday.

Foreign Minister Vicente Rao of Brazil urged delegates to adopt without qualifying amendments the Dulles proposal for uniting the Americas in opposition to communism.

Mexico, among others, sought amendments on the basis that the original proposal endangers the principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of a country.

Monkey Business On Airlines Has Officials Unhappy

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (AP)—TransWorld Airlines is in the monkey business and not happy about it.

It has 10 pig-tailed macaques from India on its hands.

"They're waifs, like babies on a doorstep," said C. E. Bartholomew, TWA cargo sales manager here. "If someone bids me $45, he's bought a monkey."

Mrs. Lloyd L. Brown, Overland Park, Kan., ordered the monkeys, specifying the little ones, not more than two pounds each, she said.

"But when I went down there to pick them up, my gosh, some of those things were half as big as I am," she explained. She declined to pay the freight bill of $330.

Senate Expected To Go Along On Excise Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — The Republican chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Millikin of Colorado, said today the Senate probably will go along with the House on a cut in excise taxes but he promised a battle against any further income tax reduction moves.

Millkin's stand, announced after a closed-door session of his committee, indicated the administration may be shifting its strategy to accept a loss of 912 million dollars a year in sales taxes in an effort to block Democratic drives for higher income tax exemptions.

Also at stake is the continuation of post-Korea tax rates on cigarettes, liquor, gasoline, automobiles and some other "luxury" items. These revenues, running at the rate of $1,070,000,000 a year, are due to drop on April 1 unless the excise bill passed by the House Wednesday is enacted. While the bill continues these levies, it slashes a number of other excise rates.

Millkin, announcing that hearings on the excise measure will be cut short in order to speed it to the Senate floor, said it would be "a tragedy" if the bill did not reach President Eisenhower by April 1.

The House bill would trim excise rates on a wide variety of goods now ranging up to 25 per cent down to a flat 10 per cent. These include photographic equipment, electric light bulbs, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, sporting goods, luggage and cigarette lighters as well as levies on transportation tickets, telephone bills and admissions to theaters and other entertainments.

Millkin said he was opposed to any attempt to cut personal income taxes by amending the excise measure to raise individual exemptions.

HELSINKI, Finland, March 12 (AP)—Premier Sakkari Tuomioja has formally declared an end to the state of war between Finland and Germany, the government announced today.

Engineering Detail Cause Of Defects In Army Tanks

eral Motors Corp. today blamed an "engineering detail" for defects in Army tank transmissions built by GM's Allison division.

The company said it will "stand behind the products it delivers to the United States government, just as it stands behind the products delivered to its other customers."

A statement issued by E. B. Newill, general manager of Allison division, made no comment on a statement Thursday by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) that the government was making a grave error in concentrating tank production with GM.

Newill said:

"The failures which have occurred are not due, as have been indicated, to poor workmanship or any deviations from approved designs and specifications, but rather to an engineering detail which has not performed in service in the way that might have been expected after exhaustive field tests made on this particular detail. However, a large percentage of these transmissions have already been corrected in the field and the balance of the work will be completed in a relatively short time."

Ordnance officers have estimated the cost of repairs will run to approximately $350,000.

Demand For Probe In Italy Society Scandal Mounting

ROME, March 12 (AP)—Demands mounted tonight on Premier Mario Scelba for a quick and thorough investigation of alleged scandal in high places in the Italian government.

They came not only from Scelba's hated foes, the Communists, but also from the three minor parties that have joined Scelba, a Christian Democrat, in his new coalition government.

The charges stem from courtroom testimony relating to the death of Wilma Montesi, a high society party girl.

Already Dr. Tommaso Pavone, the nation's police chief, has resigned to facilitate a sweeping inquiry. Scelba quickly named Raffaele de Caro, one of his key Cabinet ministers, to direct personally a secret investigation of the entire affair. De Caro is a member of the Liberal party—one of the three supporting the Scelba regime.

The next sensations in the case which has rocked high society and big politics may come tomorrow morning when testimony is resumed in the trial of Silvano Muto, an editor charged with spreading false and alarmist reports in connection with the story of Wilma Montesi.

The star witness, Anna Marie Moneta Caglio, may be called upon to testify face to face with her ex-lover, the self-styled Marquis Ugo Montagna. His police record, read into the court earlier, pictured him as a onetime spy, procurer of women for shady parties and friend of persons now in high places. Montagna has denied the charges.

Muto is accused of printing "false and alarmistic" news in his magazine. He has charged that Wilma attended a society beach party near Ostia last April, got too much dope and was left to drown on the beach.

Senate sources turned loose the report last night. Today there was a chain reaction:

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) a member of the McCarthy subcommittee, summoned reporters to his office to give them a statement saying the report contained "most shocking charges" and Cohn should be fired if they were true. He said he had written McCarthy, asking for a subcommittee session to look into the charges.

A subcommittee session is unlikely, though before sometime next week.

Kentucky Demos Draft Barkley For U. S. Senate

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 12 (AP)—Kentucky Democrats today urged former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, who has spent 48 of his 76 years in public office, to offer six years more.

They launched a movement to draft him for nomination for the U. S. Senate.

The "Veep," who sat as senator for 22 years, replied he would think it over. He hopes to give his answer within two weeks.

"Kentucky and the nation need Alben Barkley in the U. S. Senate," said Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby in announcing the draft movement.

He added that a group of the party's leaders "is prepared to insist" that Barkley run.

Whetherby and other Democratic leaders have their party's interest in mind, too. They want a strong opponent for U. S. Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Republican, in the Nov. 2 election. The popular Cooper is assured renomination in the Republican primary.

Barkley, who bid unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952, said he deeply appreciated "the compliment paid me" in the proposed draft. He added:

"It puts me very naturally under a deep obligation."

But Barkley said he hadn't "made up his mind" on whether to run— question repeatedly asked him in recent months.

The "Veep's" long tenure in public office, begun as McCracken County prosecutor in 1905, was interrupted by the Republicans' presidential victory in 1952.

He stepped out after four years as vice president. He later did a television show and has been making speeches frequently throughout the country as well as supervising his farming operations. He and his wife, the former Mrs. Jane Hadley, St. Louis, Mo., widow whom he wed in 1949, have been residing at Paducah since leaving Washington.

Pray For Peace

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 12 (AP)—Gov. Sir Evelyn Baring called on all Christians in Kenya today to observe a day of prayer March 21 for an end of the anti-white Mau Mau terror.

Officer Is Killed, Bandits Flee

SEATTLE, March 12 (AP)—One policeman was wounded fatally and two other officers were hit by gunfire during a holdup of a bank in Seattle's Greenwood district today.

The slain man was identified as Patrolman Frank W. Hardy.

The armed men were reported to have made a getaway.

A bank official said the shooting started when the officers surprised the gunmen while the robbery was under way.

He said he did not know whether the robbers got away with any money.

The other two wounded policemen were Sgt. Howard M. Slessman and Patrolman Vernon R. Chase.

Army To Draft 18,000 Men In May

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 18,000 men in May.

The May quota is the same as those announced for the previous three months.

The new call brings to 1,661,430 the number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of selective service in September, 1950.

The Defense Department recently estimated that draft calls would have to rise, beginning about July, and that the higher quotas would be necessary for at least six months thereafter.

Engineering Detail Cause Of Defects In Army Tanks

eral Motors Corp. today blamed an "engineering detail" for defects in Army tank transmissions built by GM's Allison division.

The company said it will "stand behind the products it delivers to the United States government, just as it stands behind the products delivered to its other customers."

A statement issued by E. B. Newill, general manager of Allison division, made no comment on a statement Thursday by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) that the government was making a grave error in concentrating tank production with GM.

Newill said:

"The failures which have occurred are not due, as have been indicated, to poor workmanship or any deviations from approved designs and specifications, but rather to an engineering detail which has not performed in service in the way that might have been expected after exhaustive field tests made on this particular detail. However, a large percentage of these transmissions have already been corrected in the field and the balance of the work will be completed in a relatively short time."

Ordnance officers have estimated the cost of repairs will run to approximately $350,000.

Farm Families Ousted By Fire

AUSTIN, Minn., March 12 (AP)—A southern Minnesota farm couple and families of two of their married daughters were homeless today as a result of three fires in as many days.

Wednesday flames destroyed the farm home, clothing and other possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmor Sorem and their five children near Wykoff while the Sorems were shopping.

Fire broke out Thursday in the farm home near Racine of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Bremseth, damaging the house so severely it can't be occupied until repairs are made. At the time of the blaze, Mrs. Bremseth was en route to buy clothes for her grandchildren, the Sorem children.

Early today, fire leveled the rural Brownsdale home of the Raymond Tuftes and their seven children while they were viewing damage to the Bremseths' house. Mrs. Tufte, like Mrs. Sorem, is a daughter of the Bremseths.

Wants Security Probe Completed

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today to approve transfer of $1,150,000 of departmental funds to permit completion by June 30 of investigations of possible security risks among federal employes.

The President made the request in a letter to House Speaker Martin. The transfer of funds would involve $900,000 from State Department appropriations for "government in occupied areas," $165,000 from Justice Department funds for salaries and expenses of the immigration service; and $85,000 of Treasury funds now slated for salaries and expenses of the Secret Service guard force.

Campaign Against McCarthy Spreads Into Free State

TOWSON, March 12 (AP)—A Connecticut housewive's anti-McCarthy campaign has spread to Maryland.

Six young Baltimore County women launched the campaign, writing letters to Vice President Nixon and also having them mimeographed and made available to any who want them.

The letters say The Wisconsin Republican has "recklessly accused American citizens of disloyalty" and "has undermined our democratic ideals no less than the Communists he supposedly fights."

McIntire To Seek Seat In Congress

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 12 (AP)—The personal physician to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, retired Navy Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, today announced his candidacy for a seat in Congress.

McIntire, whose home is in the San Diego Bay community of Coronado, said he would seek the Democratic nomination for the California 30th House District, now represented by Rep. Bob Wilson, a Republican.

Shell Cannister Found

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—After combing the depths of New York Harbor for a week with 14 divers for a half-million-dollar load of 14,460 shells lost when a barge capsized, the Navy today announced its first find:

A shell cannister, empty and floating on the surface.

Red Influence Hurts Hawaii Statehood Bid

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Sen. Robertson (D-Va) said today the Hawaiian Islands should not be granted U. S. statehood until "more definite progress has been made in dealing with Communist efforts to use Hawaii as a base for assaults on our democratic way of life."

Robertson told the Senate that admitting Hawaii to the Union now would "turn loose communistic aliens in the Hawaiian Islands who can flood our West Coast and permeate the entire nation."

The Virginian spoke out after the administration lost a fight against combining Hawaii with Alaska in a single statehood bill. The Senate voted 46-43 late yesterday against treating the two territories separately.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said he would continue to press nevertheless for a vote on the issue. He conceded, however, that "there's no percentage in trying to get an agreement until some of the speeches are out of the way."

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla), who opposes statehood for either territory, said at least 10 senators want to speak fully on the subject. Knowland said they will be given an opportunity to do as the Senate moves along with other business.

President Eisenhower favors statehood for Hawaii but has said he does not believe Alaska is ready for it at this time.

Nixon Won't Dodge Issues In Speech

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said today he won't dodge "the issues" when he goes on radio and TV tomorrow night to answer Adlai Stevenson's charge that the Republican party is "half Eisenhower and half McCarthy."

Nixon, designated by the GOP National Committee to make the official reply to Stevenson's blast at Miami Beach last Saturday night, speaks from 10:30 to 11 p.m. EST over facilities provided by NBC and CBS.

Frenchman Leads Irish On Parade

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP)—There'll be 8,000 Irishmen in Sunday's St. Patrick's Day parade, but who'll be leading them? A Frenchman.

Columbus des Chatelets, grand marshal of the parade, said today it's just a case of his having put on parades of all sorts for years and winning a reputation as a friend of the Irish.

Snow Is Brown

GARDEN CITY, Kan., March 12 (AP)—It was a dirty blizzard that struck this city today.

Huge Well, Fed By Millions Of Feet Of Gas, Afire

HOBBS, N.M., March 12 (AP)—A gas well, fed by an estimated 100 million cubic feet of roaring gas every 24 hours, is burning today near Monument 10 miles southeast of here.

The well, Sinclair Oil Co. Barber No. 13, caught on fire at 8:45 p.m. last night.

The gas burning is enough for the daily supply of a city of 350,000 population—about the size of Fort Worth, Texas.

Winds up to 62 miles an hour whipped the flames last night, making firefighting hazardous. The wind was blowing about 40 m.p.h. today.

Roar of the fire was audible several miles, and the flames were visible for about 11 miles.

Brazil Backs Anti-Red Plans

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 12 (AP)—Brazil today threw its unconditional support behind the U.S. plan to fight communism in the Americas.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, apparently confident that a major diplomatic victory was assured at the 10th Inter-American conference, announced he would leave for home "sometime tomorrow."

But one of the toughest problems still facing the United States remained unsolved—how to satisfy Latin-America's insistent demands for economic help. That one seemed to be getting bigger by the minute.

The conference devoted its major efforts today to finishing up work on the anti-Communist measure so a vote can be taken on Saturday.

Foreign Minister Vicente Rao of Brazil urged delegates to adopt without qualifying amendments the Dulles proposal for uniting the Americas in opposition to communism.

Mexico, among others, sought amendments on the basis that the original proposal endangers the principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of a country.

Monkey Business On Airlines Has Officials Unhappy

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (AP)—TransWorld Airlines is in the monkey business and not happy about it.

It has 10 pig-tailed macaques from India on its hands.

"They're waifs, like babies on a doorstep," said C. E. Bartholomew, TWA cargo sales manager here. "If someone bids me $45, he's bought a monkey."

Mrs. Lloyd L. Brown, Overland Park, Kan., ordered the monkeys, specifying the little ones, not more than two pounds each, she said.

"But when I went down there to pick them up, my gosh, some of those things were half as big as I am," she explained. She declined to pay the freight bill of $330.

Senate Expected To Go Along On Excise Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The Republican chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. Millikin of Colorado, said today the Senate probably will go along with the House on a cut in excise taxes but he promised a battle against any further income tax reduction moves.

Millkin's stand, announced after a closed-door session of his committee, indicated the administration may be shifting its strategy to accept a loss of 912 million dollars a year in sales taxes in an effort to block Democratic drives for higher income tax exemptions.

Also at stake is the continuation of post-Korea tax rates on cigarettes, liquor, gasoline, automobiles and some other "luxury" items. These revenues, running at the rate of $1,070,000,000 a year, are due to drop on April 1 unless the excise bill passed by the House Wednesday is enacted. While the bill continues these levies, it slashes a number of other excise rates.

Millkin, announcing that hearings on the excise measure will be cut short in order to speed it to the Senate floor, said it would be "a tragedy" if the bill did not reach President Eisenhower by April 1.

The House bill would trim excise rates on a wide variety of goods now ranging up to 25 per cent down to a flat 10 per cent. These include photographic equipment, electric light bulbs, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, sporting goods, luggage and cigarette lighters as well as levies on transportation tickets, telephone bills and admissions to theaters and other entertainments.

Millkin said he was opposed to any attempt to cut personal income taxes by amending the excise measure to raise individual exemptions.

Demand For Probe In Italy Society Scandal Mounting

ROME, March 12 (AP)—Demands mounted tonight on Premier Mario Scelba for a quick and thorough investigation of alleged scandal in high places in the Italian government.

They came not only from Scelba's hated foes, the Communists, but also from the three minor parties that have joined Scelba, a Christian Democrat, in his new coalition government.

The charges stem from courtroom testimony relating to the death of Wilma Montesi, a high society party girl.

Already Dr. Tommaso Pavone, the nation's police chief, has resigned to facilitate a sweeping inquiry. Scelba quickly named Raffaele de Caro, one of his key Cabinet ministers, to direct personally a secret investigation of the entire affair. De Caro is a member of the Liberal party—one of the three supporting the Scelba regime.

The next sensations in the case which has rocked high society and big politics may come tomorrow morning when testimony is resumed in the trial of Silvano Muto, an editor charged with spreading false and alarmist reports in connection with the story of Wilma Montesi.

The star witness, Anna Marie Moneta Caglio, may be called upon to testify face to face with her ex-lover, the self-styled Marquis Ugo Montagna. His police record, read into the court earlier, pictured him as a onetime spy, procurer of women for shady parties and friend of persons now in high places. Montagna has denied the charges.

Muto is accused of printing "false and alarmistic" news in his magazine. He has charged that Wilma attended a society beach party near Ostia last April, got too much dope and was left to drown on the beach.

Nation's Unemployed Hits 3 Millions, Census Shows

Rise Is 584,000 In Past Month, Is Highest Since War

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — The Census Bureau reported today the nation's unemployment rose 584,000 in February to a total of 3,671,000.

This was on the basis of a new sampling method adopted by the bureau.

Unemployment as reflected by an old sampling method, which Secretary of Commerce Weeks said is being discontinued, rose over one million in February to a total of 3,385,000.

Highest Since War

The 3,671,000 unemployed for February reflected in the new official sample compared with 1,788,00 in February last year, which was the lowest since World War II, and 4,684,000 in February, 1950, the highest since the war.

The new figures represented an unemployment increase of well over two million in the three months from last November to this February.

The February figures showed an increase of nearly one million in the labor force from January. This figure for January was 62,840,000, compared with 63,725,000 in February.

The labor force is made up of all persons 14 years of age or older, who are employed or are seeking work.

The number of persons employed was estimated at 60,051,000 in February compared with 59,753,000 in January. This included 5,697,000 in February and 5,284,000 in January employed in agriculture, and 54,349,000 in February and 54,469,000 in January employed in non-agricultural industries.

The farm and non-farm figures supplied for February do not add to the total for that month; the department said it could not immediately explain the discrepancy.

The unemployed total of 3,671,000 for February compared with 3,087,000 in January by the new sample method. This is a poll of 25,000 households distributed in 230 areas in 450 counties. The old method covered 25,000 households located in 68 areas and about 123 counties.

Disgrace To America

The 584,000-increase in unemployed in February appeared sure to touch off new discussion of the government's responsibility in the present economic situation.

The CIO immediately issued a statement claiming the new census figures are "a disgrace to America."

Data made available, meanwhile, at the Labor Department showed that new claims for unemployment compensation during the week ended March 6 totaled 318,000 compared with 288,200 for a week earlier. The Bureau of Employment Security said insured unemployment rose 43,100 to 2,211,500 for the week ended Feb. 27.

The materials are used in foreign aid programs and for national stockpiling.

Fertilizer was the largest item received in exchange for the farm products, chiefly grains. The fertilizer was sent to Korea.

Pope's Anniversary Honored At Mass He Doesn't Attend

VATICAN CITY, March 12 (AP)—Cardinals, high prelates and diplomats attended a High Mass in the Sistine Chapel today honoring the 15th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII.

The Pope, confined to his Vatican apartment for the past 46 days with an abdominal ailment, was not able to attend. His white throne in the chapel was decorated with the papal seal—a white dove holding an olive sprig in its beak and perched above stormy waters.

Sixteen cardinals and diplomats of 40 nations accredited to the Vatican attended the Mass, which was sung by Benedetto Cardinal Aolisi Masella.

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—Robert R. Young indicated today that if he wins his battle for control of the New York Central Railroad, he will remove Central President William White.

Addressing the New York Society of Security Analysts, Young remarked that the Central's bylaws provide that the directors "shall have the power to remove any officer at any time."

White is under a ten-year contract at $120,000 a year which provides for lower payments upon his retirement.

Defense Asks Mercy, Justice In Wable Trial

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 12 (AP)—The defense appealed to a jury of seven men and five women today to couple mercy with justice and spare the life of John Wesley Wable, charged with being the phantom slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow.

Chief Defense Atty. A. C. Scales took 2½ hours for his closing address. He told the jurors that if they believe state's evidence, the highest verdict they could return is second degree murder. He did not specifically ask for an acquittal.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph M. Loughran told the jury in his summation:

"I ask you find this man guilty of murder in the first degree with a penalty of death."

Scales said the death penalty is not warranted on the basis of such evidence.

Wable, 24-year-old Ohiopyle, Pa. man, is on trial for his life charged with slaying Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va. Wable is also charged with killing Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa.

The bodies of the two truck drivers were found last July on the Pennsylvania Turnpike within three days of each other. Each man had been shot in the head as he slept in the cab of his parked truck.

A crowded courtroom heard Scales make his final appeal to the jury. He said Wable is a young man who stood alone without counsel, facing a battery of police who got him to sign statements. Scales added:

"He doesn't look to me like the type of person who would perform an atrocious crime like this There are so many doubts, so many loop holes. We can't take a chance on a thing like this. We are going to have to live with ourselves x x x.

"He stands charged only with the Harry Pitts case. That is the case you are to decide and that is the only case you are to decide."

The state called witnesses to prove Wable was on the Turnpike at the time of the slaying, that he owned the gun which killed the truckers.

Wable testified in his own behalf and denied killing either man. He said he owned the gun but insisted he had given it to another man named Parks. Police testified such a person never existed.

Belgians OK Six-Nation Europe Army

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 12 (AP)—The Belgian Senate approved the six-nation European army today and advanced the European Defense Community to its half-way mark.

The Netherlands and West Germany previously ratified the EDC treaty. France, Italy and Luxembourg still have to act.

France's final position on the army, which is intended to include half a million German soldiers, is one of the biggest question marks now.

Italy's new Premier Mario Scelba has promised to fight for ratification, but internal troubles, including a boiling scandal over the death of a society party girl, threatened Scelba's schedule in the Italian Parliament.

Actually only the Netherlands has completed all the technical treaty ratification procedure.

West Germany's President Heuss has held up signature of the German ratification papers pending settlement of a constitutional dispute in West Germany over rearmament.

Belgium's King Baudouin has to sign the treaty and the Belgian official journal has to publish it before the Belgian ratification process is completed.

The Belgian Senate vote was 125-40, with 2 abstentions, and 8 members absent. The House approved the EDC treaty last November 148-49, with 3 abstentions.

The West German government tonight hailed the Belgian ratification with praise for the "powerful majority" given the treaty. In Bonn, a West German Parliament committee worked on legislation to call up the 500,000 German soldiers promised for the army.

Pvt. Robert B. Cummings, Norfolk, Va.

One deal included 98,500 Italian blankets which were diverted to Formosa.

Russia elects a new Supreme Soviet, or Parliament, Sunday from a single ticket, and prominent Soviet leaders have been campaigning for a week. The Premier's speech was broadcast tonight by Moscow radio which said it was greeted by "stormy applause."

Malenkov predicted that Russia's fifth Five-Year Plan, as far as consumer goods is concerned, will be completed in four years.

Pope's Anniversary Honored At Mass He Doesn't Attend

VATICAN CITY, March 12 (AP)—Cardinals, high prelates and diplomats attended a High Mass in the Sistine Chapel today honoring the 15th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII.

The Pope, confined to his Vatican apartment for the past 46 days with an abdominal ailment, was not able to attend. His white throne in the chapel was decorated with the papal seal—a white dove holding an olive sprig in its beak and perched above stormy waters.

Sixteen cardinals and diplomats of 40 nations accredited to the Vatican attended the Mass, which was sung by Benedetto Cardinal Aolisi Masella.

The Prince is here for a four-day stay on a government-sponsored tour of aircraft plants. Today he visited Lockheed at nearby Burbank.

Young Wants White Ousted By Railroad

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—Robert R. Young indicated today that if he wins his battle for control of the New York Central Railroad, he will remove Central President William White.

Addressing the New York Society of Security Analysts, Young remarked that the Central's bylaws provide that the directors "shall have the power to remove any officer at any time."

White is under a ten-year contract at $120,000 a year which provides for lower payments upon his retirement.

President Arrives At Cabin Retreat

THURMONT, Md., March 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived at his cabin retreat in the snowclad Catoctin Mountains today for a weekend of rest combined with work on the tax speech he will make to the nation Monday night.

The President was accompanied to Camp David, named for his grandson, by Mrs. Eisenhower and a small party of relatives and friends.

Defense Asks Mercy, Justice In Wable Trial

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 12 (AP)—The defense appealed to a jury of seven men and five women today to couple mercy with justice and spare the life of John Wesley Wable, charged with being the phantom slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow.

Chief Defense Atty. A. C. Scales took 2½ hours for his closing address. He told the jurors that if they believe state's evidence, the highest verdict they could return is second degree murder. He did not specifically ask for an acquittal.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph M. Loughran told the jury in his summation:

"I ask you find this man guilty of murder in the first degree with a penalty of death."

Scales said the death penalty is not warranted on the basis of such evidence.

Wable, 24-year-old Ohiopyle, Pa. man, is on trial for his life charged with slaying Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va. Wable is also charged with killing Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa.

The bodies of the two truck drivers were found last July on the Pennsylvania Turnpike within three days of each other. Each man had been shot in the head as he slept in the cab of his parked truck.

A crowded courtroom heard Scales make his final appeal to the jury. He said Wable is a young man who stood alone without counsel, facing a battery of police who got him to sign statements. Scales added:

"He doesn't look to me like the type of person who would perform an atrocious crime like this There are so many doubts, so many loop holes. We can't take a chance on a thing like this. We are going to have to live with ourselves x x x.

"He stands charged only with the Harry Pitts case. That is the case you are to decide and that is the only case you are to decide."

The state called witnesses to prove Wable was on the Turnpike at the time of the slaying, that he owned the gun which killed the truckers.

Wable testified in his own behalf and denied killing either man. He said he owned the gun but insisted he had given it to another man named Parks. Police testified such a person never existed.

Belgians OK Six-Nation Europe Army

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 12 (AP)—The Belgian Senate approved the six-nation European army today and advanced the European Defense Community to its half-way mark.

The Netherlands and West Germany previously ratified the EDC treaty. France, Italy and Luxembourg still have to act.

France's final position on the army, which is intended to include half a million German soldiers, is one of the biggest question marks now.

Italy's new Premier Mario Scelba has promised to fight for ratification, but internal troubles, including a boiling scandal over the death of a society party girl, threatened Scelba's schedule in the Italian Parliament.

Actually only the Netherlands has completed all the technical treaty ratification procedure.

West Germany's President Heuss has held up signature of the German ratification papers pending settlement of a constitutional dispute in West Germany over rearmament.

Belgium's King Baudouin has to sign the treaty and the Belgian official journal has to publish it before the Belgian ratification process is completed.

The Belgian Senate vote was 125-40, with 2 abstentions, and 8 members absent. The House approved the EDC treaty last November 148-49, with 3 abstentions.

The West German government tonight hailed the Belgian ratification with praise for the "powerful majority" given the treaty. In Bonn, a West German Parliament committee worked on legislation to call up the 500,000 German soldiers promised for the army.

Md. Governor Signs 38 Bills Into Law

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin put the finishing touches today on nearly one-half the work of the 1954 Maryland legislature by signing 38 bills into law.

All were measures he had been expected to approve.

The batch did not include the hot-potato, 100-million-dollar bonus bill which squeaked through to passage in the dying minutes of the 30-day session which ended March 4.

A member of the governor's staff said there was nothing significant about the fact that some controversial measures were not approved today.

The aide noted that no vetoes were announced.

Signs Home-Rule Bill

Probably the most far-reaching bill signed into law was one giving local governments greater control over their own affairs, provided this meets with the approval of the voters in November.

Backed by the Maryland League of Municipalities, it divides cities, towns and villages into four classes based on population. All have authority to pass their own laws within certain limits.

But if for any reason the Legislation passed a law affecting one community, the law also would apply to all other communities in the same population class.

Among other restrictions, local governments may not impose any taxes not already in effect before Jan. 1, 1954.

Also signed by the governor today were bills exempting boats 100 feet in length or less from the personal property tax, authorizing the state racing commission to award an extra day to Laurel Race Course because of a weathered-out program last fall, and making the state office center construction project in Baltimore eligible for federal aid.

The governor's office said the 38 bills signed were considered in the same order they were reviewed by the attorney general's office for technical defects.

87 Measures Passed

Eighty-seven were passed by the 1954 Legislature.

Besides the veterans bonus bill, controversial measures still awaiting gubernatorial action include one which would postpone increases in automobile registration fees.

Scheduled to go into effect next year, the increases would be put off until 1956 by a bill sponsored by Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester).

Gas Co. Given Authority To Build System

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—A Power Commission examiner ruled today that Shenandoah Gas Co., Lynchburg, Va., should be given authority to build a natural gas transmission system in Virginia and West Virginia, conditioned on further action to provide the company a supply of gas.

Examiner Francis L. Hall's decision will become a final commission order unless a review is initiated in 30 days.

It holds that Shenandoah should be authorized to construct a natural gas line to supply markets in Northern Virginia and Northeastern West Virginia.

"The authorization, however, would not be effective unless and until the FPC issues an order in another proceeding directing Atlantic Seaboard Corp., Charleston, W. Va., to supply Shenandoah with its natural gas requirements," the commission's announcement said.

It was explained that Shenandoah filed a separate application asking an order to direct Seaboard to supply it with a maximum of 4 million cubic feet of natural gas a day but that Hall denied this on grounds Seaboard's system lacked capacity to take on the new commitment.

"Seaboard has another application pending to increase the capacity of the existing Cobb, W. Va., —Rockville, Md., line," the commission said. It added that Hall conditioned effectiveness of the Shenandoah order on whether the commission subsequently directs Seaboard to supply Shenandoah with gas as a condition in the pending proceeding.

Shenandoah's proposed system would connect with Seaboard's near Middletown, Va., and would extend up the Shenandoah Valley by way of Winchester to Martinsburg, W. Va., where it would connect with the distribution system of Martinsburg Gas and Heating Co.

The system would include about 40 miles of pipe line and have an initial cost of about $1,466,500.

528 Persons Died In State Auto Mishaps

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP) — What could have been done to save some of the 524 who were killed in accidents on Maryland's streets and highways last year?

Some clues became available today when a special State Police bureau finished tabulating the complicated statistics it kept on motor vehicle accidents in the state last year.

The villain is the bad driver.

In 88 per cent of the 468 fatal accidents, the drivers involved were violating rules of the road.

State Police Superintendent Elmer F. Munshower pointed out two-thirds of the 33,788 accidents involved recklessness, speeding, failure to yield the right-of-way, or drinking.

Of the 622 drivers involved in those 468 fatal accidents:

172 were speeding.

67 were driving recklessly.

130 had been drinking and 38 were under the influence.

35 failed to yield the right-of-way.

22 were on the wrong side of the road, although not passing another car.

11 apparently went to sleep.

Some kind of violation contributed to 412 of the 468 fatal accidents.

Of the 622 drivers involved, 408 were in the wrong.

Where pedestrians were killed—and 153 of them were in 1953—they were at fault 70 per cent of the time.

These all are "at least" figures. The information was too sketchy for a determination in a few of the fatal accidents.

Babs Hutton, Spouse Separate, Reports Say

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Barbara Hutton Rubirosa, the Woolworth heiress, and her diplomat-playboy fourth husband, Porfirio Rubirosa, have separated, usually reliable society sources reported here today.

Barbara last night left the home she shared here with the Dominican minister to France, it was said. She moved in with her aunt, Mrs. James P. Donahue, also a Woolworth heiress, at the exclusive Everglades Club.

Rubirosa early today drove to Lantana, a small community south of Palm Beach, and took off in his private plane for an unknown destination. He filed no flight plan with the Civil Aeronautics Authority and no one here knew his plans.

10 Companies Battle Calcite Plant Fire

TOWSON, March 12 (AP)—Firemen from ten Baltimore County companies fought for more than an hour today before they could bring under control a big fire at the Harry T. Campbell and Sons Calcite plant six miles north of here at Texas, Md.

Three firemen and one company employe were superficially injured.

About half the plant was damaged. It occupied about an acre. A company spokesman said he could not estimate the loss immediately.

Probers Frisk Prisoners, Find Two Have Knives

HAGERSTOWN, March 12 (AP) — Investigators visited the Washington County jail today and a deputy sheriff said they frisked 40 prisoners and found two carrying peenknives.

Deputy Sheriff Guy Miller said the visit was made by State's Attorney John S. Hollyday and two private investigators.

Deputies said the jail check was made with the permission of Sheriff Edward Roland.

Miller said prisoners also were interviewed about food and he said about half complained and half said the food was all right.

Chester F. Delphey, county commissioner, had announced Wednesday that a probe was underway of the sheriff's office and the jail. He said agents had posed as prisoners to get information.

The commissioner had said the probe got underway after it was disclosed a deputy sheriff charged about $36 worth of gasoline to the county on a honeymoon trip to Florida last fall.

Today, Deputy Michael Farrie released a prepared statement. It said in part:

"On the trip down and back I used my gasoline courtesy card under which all purchases are charged and billed to the county. In Florida a worn out tire blew out and I purchased a new one for cash at a personal cost of $38. The time, place and the amount of purchases were down on a charge slip and could not have been 'put over' on the county.

"At the end of the trip my account could have been squared by paying the county $36 for gasoline and collecting $38 from the county for the tire personally paid for. It is my feeling that one item off-sets the other and I made no claim for the tire replacement."

Cotton acreage in North Carolina has decreased about 65 per cent in the past 25 years.

A temperature of 115 in a human being is considered fatal.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Barbara Hutton Rubirosa, the Woolworth heiress, and her diplomat-playboy fourth husband, Porfirio Rubirosa, have separated, usually reliable society sources reported here today.

Barbara last night left the home she shared here with the Dominican minister to France, it was said. She moved in with her aunt, Mrs. James P. Donahue, also a Woolworth heiress, at the exclusive Everglades Club.

Rubirosa early today drove to Lantana, a small community south of Palm Beach, and took off in his private plane for an unknown destination. He filed no flight plan with the Civil Aeronautics Authority and no one here knew his plans.

10 Companies Battle Calcite Plant Fire

TOWSON, March 12 (AP)—Firemen from ten Baltimore County companies fought for more than an hour today before they could bring under control a big fire at the Harry T. Campbell and Sons Calcite plant six miles north of here at Texas, Md.

Three firemen and one company employe were superficially injured.

About half the plant was damaged. It occupied about an acre. A company spokesman said he could not estimate the loss immediately.

Probers Frisk Prisoners, Find Two Have Knives

HAGERSTOWN, March 12 (AP) — Investigators visited the Washington County jail today and a deputy sheriff said they frisked 40 prisoners and found two carrying peenknives.

Deputy Sheriff Guy Miller said the visit was made by State's Attorney John S. Hollyday and two private investigators.

Deputies said the jail check was made with the permission of Sheriff Edward Roland.

Miller said prisoners also were interviewed about food and he said about half complained and half said the food was all right.

Chester F. Delphey, county commissioner, had announced Wednesday that a probe was underway of the sheriff's office and the jail. He said agents had posed as prisoners to get information.

The commissioner had said the probe got underway after it was disclosed a deputy sheriff charged about $36 worth of gasoline to the county on a honeymoon trip to Florida last fall.

Today, Deputy Michael Farrie released a prepared statement. It said in part:

"On the trip down and back I used my gasoline courtesy card under which all purchases are charged and billed to the county. In Florida a worn out tire blew out and I purchased a new one for cash at a personal cost of $38. The time, place and the amount of purchases were down on a charge slip and could not have been 'put over' on the county.

"At the end of the trip my account could have been squared by paying the county $36 for gasoline and collecting $38 from the county for the tire personally paid for. It is my feeling that one item off-sets the other and I made no claim for the tire replacement."

Cotton acreage in North Carolina has decreased about 65 per cent in the past 25 years.

A temperature of 115 in a human being is considered fatal.

The Saar And EDC

The progress of negotiations between France and West Germany on the future status of the Saar will have a direct bearing on whether and when the French parliament ratifies the European Defense Community treaty. And upon French ratification hangs the fate of the community itself, and the proposed European army.

The Western Allies are pressing for debate in the French Assembly before April 25, when the Geneva Conference is to open. French and German experts are slated to have a completed agreement on the Saar ready for Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and French Foreign Minister Bidault by March 30, when the two are to attend a meeting of foreign ministers of the European community in Brussels.

Dr. Adenauer and M. Bidault on March 9 accepted a basis for negotiation on the Saar. Something more than agenda, and something less than a firm commitment, the "framework for negotiation" was based on a proposal prepared by Marinus van der Goes van Naters, a Netherlands Socialist, and endorsed in February by the General Affairs Committee of the 15-nation Council of Europe. The Van Naters proposal envisions a Saar that would:

1) Become the first "European" territory, linked economically as now with France but with equal economic rights gradually available to Germany; 2) have complete autonomy in its internal affairs; 3) entrust its defense and foreign affairs to a "European commissioner" responsible to the committee of ministers of the Council of Europe.

France, Germany, Great Britain, and the United States would guarantee the provisional status of the Saar and would support this status as the final one to be written into a German peace treaty. To this latter provision Dr. Adenauer demurs as having no authority to commit a future united Germany.

The EDC treaty was signed in May 1952. The West German Bundestag on February 26 gave the government, 344 to 144, the two-thirds majority necessary for amending the Bonn constitution to permit rearmament under the EDC. The Bundesrat votes on the amendment on March 19. It is not entirely clear as yet, however, that the amendment would by-pass the West German Supreme Court case that has been holding up final ratification of the EDC treaty.

M. Bidault on February 23, returning from the Big Four Conference in Berlin, strongly urged that the EDC treaty, now in committee in the French Assembly, be put to a vote without new delay. U. S. Ambassador Bruce, special representative to the six countries in the European Coal and Steel (Schuman plan) Community, now predicts that the assembly will take up the EDC treaty before the Geneva Conference opens.

Three successive French governments have said that France cannot ratify EDC until an agreement is reached with West Germany on the Saar. The Saar, a German-populated border district, was united with France economically during the period of League of Nations administration, from 1920 to 1935. The Saar plebiscite of 1935 restored the area to Germany politically, and Germany was obliged to repurchase the mines.

The Moscow Conference of 1947 established the Saar temporarily as a separate state with local autonomy. The economy was to be linked with that of France, which also would govern foreign relations.

Classifying Executives

There's an interesting chart in the current issue of Personnel, a magazine published by the American Management Association, entitled "A Ready Guide for Evaluating Executives."

It depicts, in a humorous manner, how one can tell, by observing an executive brief case, desk, office, table, carpeting, plant stands, vacuum water bottle, library, shoe-shine service or parking space, exactly where he stands on the ladder of importance.

The chart conveniently breaks the executives into six classes: Top dogs, VIPs, Brass, No. 2s, Eager Beavers, and the ordinary Hoi Polloi.

As an example, take briefcases! The top brass have none—they ask the questions. The VIPs, on the other hand, use the backs of envelopes for their records. Someone goes along with the brass to carry their briefcases, while the No. 2s carry their own—empty. The eager beavers carry their own, filled with work, and the hoi polloi are too poor to own one.

On the matter of carpeting, we find the top dogs have nylon—one-inch pile, as do the VIPs. The brass have wool-twist carpeting with pad, and the No. 2s have wool-twist without pad. The eager beavers have used wool pieces, sewed, while the hoi polloi move about on asphalt tile.

Under the vacuum water bottle heading, the chart shows that the top dogs and VIPs have silver; the brass have chromium; the No. 2s plain painted, and the eager beavers, coke machines. The hoi polloi use water fountains.

As one more example, there is the parking space. The top dogs have a private space in front of the office, the VIPs park in the plant garage, and the brass uses the company garage—if they have enough seniority. The No. 2s park in the company properties—"somewhere"; the eager beavers use the parking lot, and the hoi pollois park anywhere they can find a space—that is, if they can afford a car.

And so it goes, right down the list of other visible appurtenances of executives. Since this is a magazine read generally by executives, it must be an authoritative word on the subject.

Government May Sell

News from Washington is that the government may relinquish some of its vast holdings within the District of Columbia. The government has abandoned plans to create a federal building center in Southwest Washington, made 20 years ago, according to Public Building Commissioner W. E. Reynolds. As a result, 52 properties which the federal government owns in the area will be offered for sale. That is, if no government agency asks for them.

Perhaps some alert congressman will expand on this excellent plan and start a movement to divest the federal government of useless real estate which it owns. Certainly proceeds from such sales would make a rise in the debt limit unnecessary. In one large state, Nevada, the federal government owns more than 75 per cent of the terrain.

How To Keep Well

Difficult Walking

Recently I questioned a group of oldsters and found that the majority enjoy walking, and for years have confined their exercise to this activity. It is not too strenuous and gives them a much needed mental and physical outlet. Walking requires balance, well nourished muscles, and flexible joints and co-ordination of these structures occurs through the integration of many reflexes. A disturbance of any of these factors interfers with the process, and it is surprising how many conditions can develop that will rob us of the pleasure of walking.

There are innumerable afflictions of the muscles. Muscular dystrophy is the best known because of the publicity given a society interested in helping victims of this disorder.

A typical example is a small boy who is awkward because of a waddling gait. Closer study shows marked weakness of the muscles of the trunk and pelvic girdle. The calf muscles look strong because they are enlarged but looks are deceiving as the enlargement consists of fibrous tissue. The clew to the existence of muscular dystrophy is the way in which the child arises from a sitting or recumbent position. The back is so weak that in order to stand upright, he clasps his ankles and slowly "climbs" the legs to higher levels until he is standing erect.

The leg muscles also are involved in myasthenia gravis. This puzzling malady is easily recognized because the sufferer tires rapidly. After walking or climbing stairs he is forced to rest for several minutes and then proceed until overtaken by fatigue. Several remedies, like prostigmin, have a specific effect upon the disease. When the drug is administered, fatigue disappears miraculously.

In multiple neuritis, the nerves leading to the legs are affected thru alcohol, arsenic, lead, toxins, vitamin B deficiency, diphtheria, or other infections. As the nerves deaden, the feet and legs become weak, numb, tender to the touch, or painful. Sciatica also interfers with leg movements, particularly when nerve pressure has existed over a long time and fibers are damaged beyond repair. Partial paralysis and numbness occur so that the victim finds it difficult to flex the leg or extend the foot.

There are innumerable afflictions of the spinal cord and brain that affect walking and balance. Polio and brain hemorrhage or thrombosis are the most familiar, followed by disturbances such as multiple sclerosis and parkinsonism (shaking palsy).

IMMATURE

R. C. writes: I'm 21 and have a high I. Q. but was told I'm not mature emotionally. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes. This question demonstrates that the intelligence and the emotional status are not necessarily the same. Many talented persons do not know how to adjust to the situations of life and as a result are lonesome and unhappy. This may explain why geniuses are often referred to as "peculiar." On the other hand, there is no finer combination than a highly intelligent individual who has a mature outlook on life.

HABITUAL YAWNER

R. W. S. writes: I'm 26 and for the past few years yawn continuously throughout the day. Since I get enough sleep, my father claims that it is just an annoying habit that I could stop if I tried. But I can't. I feel as if I'm not getting enough oxygen in my lungs and yawning helps me. Will you please comment on this condition?

REPLY

At your age, persistent yawning is more likely to be a habit than a disturbance in circulation or of the chemistry of the blood. Since these possibilities exist, however, examination is in order to settle the question.

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

D. L. writes: Does a person know when he is going out of his mind?

REPLY

No, and this is one of the nicer things about going crazy. In these instances, the victim believes that everyone else is out of step.

KIDNEY DISEASE

C. Z. writes: 1. What is the latest treatment for acute nephritis? 2. How long does the disease last?

REPLY

1. Treatment for nephritis is highly technical and centers about the fluid intake, diet, and restriction of salt. ACTH or cortisone is used now and then but the value of these hormones has not been determined. 2. In 90 per cent, improvement takes place within six weeks.

SINUS VIRUS

G. D. writes: Are the sinuses subject to virus infections?

REPLY

Yes. The virus behaves like any other invading organism and would just as soon invade the sinus as the nose or throat. On the other hand, viral infections are short-lived and usually are replaced by a bacterial infection within a day or two. For this reason, the streptococcus, staphylococcus, and other bacteria are present in most sinus infections.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCarthy Attacks Usually Based On Personal Revenge; John J. McCloy Incurred Senator's Fury By Inspiring Ike's Book-Burning Speech

WASHINGTON—If you trace the attacks of Senator McCarthy against most of the major targets he has aimed at, you will invariably detect an underlying motive of revenge—a motive reminiscent of totalitarian tactics in Europe before the war.

McCarthy attacked Senators Tydings of Maryland and Benton of Connecticut because one questioned his charge of 205 Communists in the State Department, the other introduced a resolution asking for a probe of McCarthy.

McCarthy now seeks to defeat Sen. Margaret Chase Smith in Maine because she initiated the declaration of conscience which reflected on him. And of course the running feud with Secretary of the Army Stevens came after Stevens refused to admit that Fort Monmouth was riddled with Communists.

But the most brazen recent case of McCarthy vindictiveness was against the former assistant secretary of war, John J. McCloy, now head of the Chase Bank, which is not exactly a Communist institution.

McCloy has been out of government for some years after a distinguished career not only in the War Department but as head of the World Bank and as high commissioner to Germany. Nevertheless, out of the clear blue, the senator from Wisconsin suddenly accused McCloy of destroying records of Communists in the U. S. Army.

The charge was so untrue that McCarthy had to retract it publicly But he still accused McCloy of writing a wartime Army order, which, McCarthy claimed, permitted Communists to be commissioned in the U. S. Army.

Reasons For Revenge

But while the public has read of McCarthy's attack on McCloy, they don't know the motives behind that attack. It dates back to a famous speech made by President Eisenhower at Dartmouth last spring in which the President condemned book-burning. McCarthy bitterly resented that speech — obviously aimed at him.

The inspiration, he found, was Mr. McCloy.

Actually, the inspiration was accidental. Here is what happened. McCloy, too, was receiving an honorary degree from Dartmouth, and before the ceremonies, was talking to N. Y. Attorney Joseph Proskauer about the books that had been burned at U. S. information libraries abroad at the demand of Senator McCarthy.

Catching only a fragment of the conversation, President Eisenhower leaned forward and asked: "What's this, what's this?"

"I was telling about the burning of State Department books abroad," McCloy replied.

"Oh, they're not burning books," Ike interposed.

"I'm afraid they are, Mr. President," McCloy replied. "I have the evidence."

He then went on to tell the President how he, as an American official in Germany knew firsthand the tremendous achievement of State Department libraries.

"Eighteen million Germans read those books in 1952 alone," McCloy explained. "Probably as many Germans studied the principles of our founding fathers as did Americans, thanks to those books.

"And the value of those books was that they were uncensored. They criticized you and me, and Dean Acheson and anyone else in government. The Germans knew they were uncensored and that was why they streamed into our libraries leaving the house of kultur empty.

"These were books sent to American boys right after the war. Books which their parents and friends wanted them to read. There was nothing subversive about these books."

Eisenhower Is Moved

President Eisenhower listened intently. Then obviously moved he delivered impromptu the stirring Dartmouth speech on book-burning. It electrified the nation and was hailed by the American press as Ike's first crack-down on McCarthy.

McCarthy was so furious that next day he pulled wires at the White House to keep the speech from being broadcast over the Voice of America and also persuaded the President to issue a statement that the speech was meant as no reflection on him.

Nevertheless he deeply resented it. And when word came back from his investigator in Dartmouth regarding the happenstance by which McCloy had inspired the speech, McCarthy actually went to the unusual length of investigating everything McCloy did. He sent two investigators to Germany to dig into McCloy's records as high commissioner. There they even probed the records of the car pool to see how many times Mrs. McCloy used her official limousine to buy groceries.

But nothing damaging turned up.

Stymied, McCarthy then launched his accusation against McCloy for allegedly destroying records on Communists inside the War Department. And when this boomeranged as untrue, the persistent and revengeful senator from Wisconsin claimed that McCloy had arranged for commissions to be given to American Communists during the war.

Actually, McCloy had argued inside the War Department that Japanese-American, German-Americans, members of the Fascist Silver Shirts and American Communists all should be allowed to fight for their country if they were found to be loyal; and that the test should be not membership in one of these groups or organizations but individual loyalty to the U. S. A. He argued first that it was unfair to other Americans to let these men off from combat duty, second that if they showed unquestioned loyalty to their country they should have the same chance in the Army as anyone else.

The decision, incidentally was not McCloy's alone, but was concurred in by the general staff and secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, a distinguished patriot who also served as secretary of war in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Caracas Conference

The problem that John Foster Dulles faces at Caracas, Venezuela, is that the Soviet Universal State has successfully penetrated an area in Latin America; has established a base for operations in Guatemala; has disaffected both Hondurases and Costa Rica; is moving rapidly into Cuba and Mexico. British Honduras is at this moment in particular danger of becoming part of the Guatemalan Communist base.

This moves the danger from the realm of theory into that of reality. The Panama Canal is imperilled, as anybody can see who reads a map. But equally important, the United States can be isolated from its Latin American neighbors and can be diverted from its world policies to a defense program on the American continents. While our statesmen excite themselves over small politics at home, we are being invaded, in the sense that area that have been important to this country's national existence since Thomas Jefferson was President are being absorbed by our national enemy.

This is the problem and it will not be solved by the current trend toward happy talk which means nothing when historic events rush at terrific speed against us. The realities are grim because involved is our national existence.

While some of our so-called statesmen continue to view without alarm, in their relaxing material comforts, the penetration into our own government, they cannot ignore the base established in Guatemala by the Kremlin, or the pressures upon other countries, particularly Costa Rica, Cuba and Mexico. Dulles is facing up to the situation realistically and fearlessly but he may be late.

The "Good Neighbor Policy" of the Roosevelt administration, devised by Stanley High and carried forward by Nelson Rockefeller, proved to be a failure, not so much because the program was wrong but because of the "Europe First Policy," which diverted attention from both China and Latin America. Russia took advantage of the diversion to conquer China and to penetrate Latin America. When one reviews all the facts, it stands clear that even when the United States was an ally of Soviet Russia, the latter was making salient moves against this country.

The harm done in Latin America can be undone but not by a casual policy or by failure to act effectively. One of the first necessities is a full understanding with the Argentine, with the very Peron whom our left wing geniuses painted as a bad dictator while they were supporting Stalin as a good dictator. Person can add to our strength; without him our difficulties will be multiplied many times.

President Eisenhower apparently recognized the period early and sent his brother, Milton, to Latin America where he made an excellent impression and gained important information as to what ought to be done. What influence Milton Eisenhower's report had upon State Department thinking, I do not know, but it would seem, from events, to have been significant. By sending Milton Eisenhower to Latin America and the vice president, Richard Nixon, to Asia, the President got an objective view of our two most perilous situations. In doing it that way, the President was wiser than most of us thought at that time.

The Caracas Conference, it is hoped, will achieve a direct anti-Soviet attitude in Latin America. Anything less will be a defeat for the United States and therefore a victory for Soviet Russia. A compromise will mean nothing. The rest of the world will watch Caracas for a sign of American strength on the home continents.

As it is expected that there is to be no success at Geneva in April, it is as essential for American prestige as for realities of our historic role that Caracas should not be a failure. The Geneva Conference is already hopeless. France and Canada are already openly indicating a desire to recognize Red China as a realistic approach to that problem. For the United States, such recognition is not realistic at all. It means a total defeat in the Korean War; it means that conquest of Southeast Asia by the Soviet Universal State and the exclusion of the United States from that continent. It means that again, as after our military defeat in Korea, each nation will have to reassess its position vis-a-vis the United States and Russia. It will increase neutralism.

Should Caracas be successful, it could have some effect on Geneva.

Here And Now

Smile!

Smile awhile,
And as you smile
Another smiles,
And soon there are
Miles and miles of smiles,
And life's worth while
Because you smile.

Today ends "National Smile Week." Now we may resume our natural expression. However, from the little sampling we have had, many of us may decide to keep it up.

A smile is an asset in business, in politics, in religion. Long-faced sanctimoniousness has been supplanted by smiles and handshakes at church.

There are more things to smile about than smilers. If we all had a sense of humor and could see the funny side as well as the more serious aspects of life, our social relationships would be happier and smoother.

Not all smiles are spontaneous, some are disingenuous. There are sugary smiles, sarcastic, sardonic, — all expressive of prevailing moods, either benign or malevolent.

Good Humor Cultivable

Good humor is cultivable. It is often sparked by some anecdote, some bon mot or waggish remark as we sit vis-a-vis at the lunch table, or stroll in the park. Then follow a feast of reason and a flow of soul that will aid digestion and lengthen life.

"How did you find your steak?" inquired the obliging waitress. "By lifting up a potato chip," you reply, and everybody chuckles.

Or your tailor friend remarks, "Your coat is too short," and you reply, "It will be long before I get another."

In such pleasantries you either see humor, or you don't. Nothing can be done about it.

I asked a man what was the funniest joke he ever heard. He replied, "Don't embarrass me! God made me, and He made a daisy."

Does God have a sense of humor? He must have, or He wouldn't have made so many people who are jokes." We have it on good authority that "He who sits in the heavens laughs". (Psalms 2:4).

Like Little Jack Horner

The way we humans behave must incite God's risibles. Like Lilliputians, we make "much ado about nothing", magnify our importance, make mountains out of molehills, fight and devour one another.

Benjamin Franklin, so the story goes, thought that if he didn't oil the wheels of the universe every morning it would run down. The story is apochryphal, but there are modern versions.

With apologies to "Little Jack Horner" of Mother Goose fame:

Little Joe McCarthy
Went for his party
To eat "subversive" pie;
He put in his thumb
And pulled out a plum,
Said, "What a good boy am I."

Brevity is the soul of wit. Repartee is a clever, ready and witty retort, such as any one would say if he had time to think about it.

The professor of chemistry was lecturing on the properties of various acids before his class. "Now," he said, "I'm going to drop this half-dollar into this glass of acid. Will it dissolve?"

"No, sir," replied one of the students. "Then, perhaps, you will explain why it won't dissolve."

"Because," came the answer, "if it would, you wouldn't drop it in."

"Daddy," inquired his six-year-old son, "Why are men not permitted to have more than one wife?"

Cheerful Heart Good Medicine

His daddy replied: "When you are old enough you will discover that the law protects a man who is not able to protect himself."

If a man marries one wife, that is "monotony." If two, that is "bigotry," and if three, that is "trigonometry" (sic).

A preacher was wakened one night by a prowler in his room. He had his wits about him and coolly asked, "What are you looking for?"

"I'm looking for money," the burglar replied. "Then wait till I dress, and I'll help you."

"A cheerful heart is a good medicine, but a downcast spirit dries up the bones." (Proverbs 17:22).

Man is the only animal capable of laughing. His mentality and character are often indexed by this faculty, as well as by his speech.

He can giggle, chortle, guffaw, titter, smirk, grin. President Eisenhower has a most engaging grin, and he has need for it.

"Teddy" Roosevelt's expansive grin showed determination and driving power. It was said that when he reached heaven, he asked St. Peter for a task worthy of his powers.

He was appointed to organize a choir. He found plenty of soprano voices, fewer altos, not so many tenors, and no bases.

In desperation, he finally said, tenors, and no basses.

Ecclesiastes says "there is a time to laugh." There is also a time to refrain from laughing, and a time to know what to laugh about.

Smilingly yours,

BROTHER BARNABAS

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company have both made a serious mistake in judgment by denying the right of reply to a United States senator in a controversy of public interest in which he is a principal news figure.

For many years now attorneys for the broadcasting companies have been contending in the courts that radio is entitled to the protection of the "freedom of press" clause in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution. Everywhere that reporters from newspapers are admitted, the radio networks have sought and in most instances have been granted admission on an equality with the press.

For two major networks to claim the privileges of the press and yet to deny their obligation to give a controversial figure the right of reply when he is attacked on their networks is a bad precedent on the record which will plague them for years to come unless—and there is still time—they reverse their recent decision.

Radio Has Responsibility

The networks have a legal right to deny Senator McCarthy free space on the air. He cannot successfully force them to do so by court action, because the right to decide what shall be put on the networks belongs solely to the broadcasting companies and no government rule would be constitutional which held otherwise. Even the requirement of law stipulating that during political campaigns the opposing candidates or parties must be given equal time is of doubtful constitutionality. Either the radio is free from government censorship and dictation all the time or not at all.

But precisely because the two broadcasting companies between them control the program time of most of the radio outlets in America, they have a responsibility to use news judgment just as the newspapers do. What an outcry would come from persons of all political faiths if a newspaper chain suddenly announced that it would not allow any of its member newspapers to print the reply of a United States senator who is attacked by another speaker in the columns of those newspapers.

Those who have commented that it is fair enough to give Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee., the right to select a spokesman to reply to Adlai Stevensons speech before the Democratic party dinner at Miami a week ago are forgetting that there are three sides to the controversy provoked by the Stevenson speech. Also, when newspapers or radio begin delegating their right of news judgment to the head of any political party, they are conceding that they are no longer independent but are subservient to others ouside their own organization in selecting their news. It is, of course, a convenient device and at first glance would seem to relieve the networks of some embarrassment, but it is transparently an abdication of news judgment. Nor does it satisfy fair play when, once having granted time without cost to one speaker, they shunt the person attacked over to commercial sponsors on the paid advertising side to make his reply. It will be a sorry day for liberalism in America when, in order to get a chance to express himself on the radio, a United States senator must ask favors from those corporations wealthy enough to buy radio or television time.

Government Granted Monopoly

The Stevenson affair in Miami, of course, was an out-and-out political meeting, and the broadcasting companies would have been justified in the first instance in requiring that the time be paid for by the Democratic National Committee. Then they would have been on solid ground if they insisted that any replies should also be paid for. Once they opened the door by giving free time to speakers at a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner, they were obliged to give the same privilege to any persons attacked on that program, and Senator McCarthy was certainly attacked by Governor Stevenson.

The danger to the radio broadcasting companies is that they will unwittingly persuade many millions of Americans that they are not on a par with the press at all and that, to get all sides of the news, there is no substitute for the American daily newspaper. This would be a serious loss of confidence in the networks. Anybody with money enough to buy a printing press and hire a staff can publish a newspaper. But it takes a license from the federal government to start a radio station. A government - granted monopoly should be especially mindful of the public interest.

The Saar And EDC

The progress of negotiations between France and West Germany on the future status of the Saar will have a direct bearing on whether and when the French parliament ratifies the European Defense Community treaty. And upon French ratification hangs the fate of the community itself, and the proposed European army.

The Western Allies are pressing for debate in the French Assembly before April 25, when the Geneva Conference is to open. French and German experts are slated to have a completed agreement on the Saar ready for Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and French Foreign Minister Bidault by March 30, when the two are to attend a meeting of foreign ministers of the European community in Brussels.

Dr. Adenauer and M. Bidault on March 9 accepted a basis for negotiation on the Saar. Something more than agenda, and something less than a firm commitment, the "framework for negotiation" was based on a proposal prepared by Marinus van der Goes van Naters, a Netherlands Socialist, and endorsed in February by the General Affairs Committee of the 15-nation Council of Europe. The Van Naters proposal envisions a Saar that would:

1) Become the first "European" territory, linked economically as now with France but with equal economic rights gradually available to Germany; 2) have complete autonomy in its internal affairs; 3) entrust its defense and foreign affairs to a "European commissioner" responsible to the committee of ministers of the Council of Europe.

France, Germany, Great Britain, and the United States would guarantee the provisional status of the Saar and would support this status as the final one to be written into a German peace treaty. To this latter provision Dr. Adenauer demurs as having no authority to commit a future united Germany.

The EDC treaty was signed in May 1952. The West German Bundestag on February 26 gave the government, 344 to 144, the two-thirds majority necessary for amending the Bonn constitution to permit rearmament under the EDC. The Bundesrat votes on the amendment on March 19. It is not entirely clear as yet, however, that the amendment would by-pass the West German Supreme Court case that has been holding up final ratification of the EDC treaty.

M. Bidault on February 23, returning from the Big Four Conference in Berlin, strongly urged that the EDC treaty, now in committee in the French Assembly, be put to a vote without new delay. U. S. Ambassador Bruce, special representative to the six countries in the European Coal and Steel (Schuman plan) Community, now predicts that the assembly will take up the EDC treaty before the Geneva Conference opens.

Three successive French governments have said that France cannot ratify EDC until an agreement is reached with West Germany on the Saar. The Saar, a German-populated border district, was united with France economically during the period of League of Nations administration, from 1920 to 1935. The Saar plebiscite of 1935 restored the area to Germany politically, and Germany was obliged to repurchase the mines.

The Moscow Conference of 1947 established the Saar temporarily as a separate state with local autonomy. The economy was to be linked with that of France, which also would govern foreign relations.

Classifying Executives

There's an interesting chart in the current issue of Personnel, a magazine published by the American Management Association, entitled "A Ready Guide for Evaluating Executives."

It depicts, in a humorous manner, how one can tell, by observing an executive brief case, desk, office, table, carpeting, plant stands, vacuum water bottle, library, shoe-shine service or parking space, exactly where he stands on the ladder of importance.

The chart conveniently breaks the executives into six classes: Top dogs, VIPs, Brass, No. 2s, Eager Beavers, and the ordinary Hoi Pollois.

As an example, take briefcases! The top brass have none—they ask the questions. The VIPs, on the other hand, use the backs of envelopes for their records. Someone goes along with the brass to carry their briefcases, while the No. 2s carry their own—empty. The eager beavers carry their own, filled with work, and the hoi polloi are too poor to own one.

On the matter of carpeting, we find the top dogs have nylon—one-inch pile, as do the VIPs. The brass have wool-twist carpeting with pad, and the No. 2s have wool-twist without pad. The eager beavers have used wool pieces, sewed, while the hoi polloi move about on asphalt tile.

Under the vacuum water bottle heading, the chart shows that the top dogs and VIPs have silver; the brass have chromium; the No. 2s plain painted, and the eager beavers, coke machines. The hoi polloi use water fountains.

As one more example, there is the parking space. The top dogs have a private space in front of the office, the VIPs park in the plant garage, and the brass uses the company garage—if they have enough seniority. The No. 2s park in the company properties —"somewhere"; the eager beavers use the parking lot, and the hoi pollois park anywhere they can find a space—that is, if they can afford a car.

And so it goes, right down the list of other visible appurtenances of executives. Since this is a magazine read generally by executives, it must be an authoritative word on the subject.

Government May Sell

News from Washington is that the government may relinquish some of its vast holdings within the District of Columbia. The government has abandoned plans to create a federal building center in Southwest Washington, made 20 years ago, according to Public Building Commissioner W. E. Reynolds. As a result, 52 properties which the federal government owns in the area will be offered for sale. That is, if no government agency asks for them.

Perhaps some alert congressman will expand on this excellent plan and start a movement to divest the federal government of useless real estate which it owns. Certainly proceeds from such sales would make a rise in the debt limit unnecessary. In one large state, Nevada, the federal government owns more than 75 per cent of the terrain.

How To Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Difficult Walking

Recently I questioned a group of oldsters and found that the majority enjoy walking, and for years have confined their exercise to this activity. It is not too strenuous and gives them a much needed mental and physical outlet. Walking requires balance, well nourished muscles, and flexible joints and co-ordination of these structures occurs through the integration of many reflexes. A disturbance of any of these factors interfers with the process, and it is surprising how many conditions can develop that will rob us of the pleasure of walking.

There are innumerable afflictions of the muscles. Muscular dystrophy is the best known because of the publicity given a society interested in helping victims of this disorder.

A typical example is a small boy who is awkward because of a waddling gait. Closer study shows marked weakness of the muscles of the trunk and pelvic girdle. The calf muscles look strong because they are enlarged but looks are deceiving as the enlargement consists of fibrous tissue. The clew to the existence of muscular dystrophy is the way in which the child arises from a sitting or recumbent position. The back is so weak that in order to stand upright, he clasps his ankles and slowly "climbs" the legs to higher levels until he is standing erect.

The leg muscles also are involved in myasthenia gravis. This puzzling malady is easily recognized because the sufferer tires rapidly. After walking or climbing stairs he is forced to rest for several minutes and then proceed until overtaken by fatigue. Several remedies, like prostigmin, have a specific effect upon the disease. When the drug is administered, fatigue disappears miraculously.

In multiple neuritis, the nerves leading to the legs are affected thru alcohol, arsenic, lead, toxins, vitamin B deficiency, diphtheria, or other infections. As the nerves deaden, the feet and legs become weak, numb, tender to the touch, or painful. Sciatica also interfers with leg movements, particularly when nerve pressure has existed over a long time and fibers are damaged beyond repair. Partial paralysis and numbness occur so that the victim finds it difficult to flex the leg or extend the foot.

There are innumerable afflictions of the spinal cord and brain that affect walking and balance. Polio and brain hemorrhage or thrombosis are the most familiar, followed by disturbances such as multiple sclerosis and parkinsonism (shaking palsy).

IMMATURE

R. C. writes: I'm 21 and have a high I. Q. but was told I'm not mature emotionally. Is this possible?

REPLY

Yes. This question demonstrates that the intelligence and the emotional status are not necessarily the same. Many talented persons do not know how to adjust to the situations of life and as a result are lonesome and unhappy. This may explain why geniuses are often referred to as "peculiar." On the other hand, there is no finer combination than a highly intelligent individual who has a mature outlook on life.

HABITUAL YAWNER

R. W. S. writes: I'm 26 and for the past few years yawn continuously throughout the day. Since I get enough sleep, my father claims that it is just an annoying habit that I could stop if I tried. But I can't. I feel as if I'm not getting enough oxygen in my lungs and yawning helps me. Will you please comment on this condition?

REPLY

At your age, persistent yawning is more likely to be a habit than a disturbance in circulation or of the chemistry of the blood. Since these possibilities exist, however, examination is in order to settle the question.

IGNORANCE IS BLISS

D. L. writes: Does a person know when he is going out of his mind?

REPLY

No, and this is one of the nicer things about going crazy. In these instances, the victim believes that everyone else is out of step.

KIDNEY DISEASE

C. Z. writes: 1. What is the latest treatment for acute nephritis? 2. How long does the disease last?

REPLY

1. Treatment for nephritis is highly technical and centers about the fluid intake, diet, and restriction of salt. ACTH or cortisone is used now and then but the value of these hormones has not been determined. 2. In 90 per cent, improvement takes place within six weeks.

SINUS VIRUS

G. D. writes: Are the sinuses subject to virus infections?

REPLY

Yes. The virus behaves like any other invading organism and would just as soon invade the sinus as the nose or throat. On the other hand, viral infections are short-lived and usually are replaced by a bacterial infection within a day or two. For this reason, the streptococcus, staphylococcus, and other bacteria are present in most sinus infections.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCarthy Attacks Usually Based On Personal Revenge; John J. McCloy Incurred Senator's Fury By Inspiring Ike's Book-Burning Speech

WASHINGTON—If you trace the attacks of Senator McCarthy against most of the major targets he has aimed at, you will invariably detect an underlying motive of revenge—a motive reminiscent of totalitarian tactics in Europe before the war.

McCarthy attacked Senators Tydings of Maryland and Benton of Connecticut because one questioned his charge of 205 Communists in the State Department, the other introduced a resolution asking for a probe of McCarthy.

McCarthy now seeks to defeat Sen. Margaret Chase Smith in Maine because she initiated the declaration of conscience which reflected on him. And of course the running feud with Secretary of the Army Stevens came after Stevens refused to admit that Fort Monmouth was riddled with Communists.

But the most brazen recent case of McCarthy vindictiveness was against the former assistant secretary of war, John J. McCloy, now head of the Chase Bank, which is not exactly a Communist institution.

McCloy has been out of government for some years after a distinguished career not only in the War Department but as head of the World Bank and as high commissioner to Germany. Nevertheless, out of the clear blue, the senator from Wisconsin suddenly accused McCloy of destroying records of Communists in the U. S. Army.

The charge was so untrue that McCarthy had to retract it publicly But he still accused McCloy of writing a wartime Army order, which, McCarthy claimed, permitted Communists to be commissioned in the U. S. Army.

Reasons For Revenge

But while the public has read of McCarthy's attack on McCloy, they don't know the motives behind that attack. It dates back to a famous speech made by President Eisenhower at Dartmouth last spring in which the President condemned book-burning. McCarthy bitterly resented that speech — obviously aimed at him.

The inspiration, he found, was Mr. McCloy.

Actually, the inspiration was accidental. Here is what happened. McCloy, too, was receiving an honorary degree from Dartmouth, and before the ceremonies, was talking to N. Y. Attorney Joseph Proskauer about the books that had been burned at U. S. information libraries abroad at the demand of Senator McCarthy.

Catching only a fragment of the conversation, President Eisenhower leaned forward and asked: "What's this, what's this?"

"I was telling about the burning of State Department books abroad," McCloy replied.

"Oh, they're not burning books," Ike interposed.

"I'm afraid they are, Mr. President," McCloy replied. "I have the evidence."

He then went on to tell the President how he, as an American official in Germany knew firsthand the tremendous achievement of State Department libraries.

"Eighteen million Germans read those books in 1952 alone," McCloy explained. "Probably as many Germans studied the principles of our founding fathers as did Americans, thanks to those books.

"And the value of those books was that they were uncensored. They criticized you and me, and Dean Acheson and anyone else in government. The Germans knew they were uncensored and that was why they streamed into our libraries leaving the house of kultur empty.

"These were books sent to American boys right after the war. Books which their parents and friends wanted them to read. There was nothing subversive about these books."

Eisenhower Is Moved

President Eisenhower listened intently. Then obviously moved he delivered impromptu the stirring Dartmouth speech on book-burning. It electrified the nation and was hailed by the American press as Ike's first crack-down on McCarthy.

McCarthy was so furious that next day he pulled wires at the White House to keep the speech from being broadcast over the Voice of America and also persuaded the President to issue a statement that the speech was meant as no reflection on him.

Nevertheless he deeply resented it. And when word came back from his investigator in Dartmouth regarding the happenstance by which McCloy had inspired the speech, McCarthy actually went to the unusual length of investigating everything McCloy did. He sent two investigators to Germany to dig into McCloy's records as high commissioner. There they even probed the records of the car pool to see how many times Mrs. McCloy used her official limousine to buy groceries.

But nothing damaging turned up.

Stymied, McCarthy then launched his accusation against McCloy for allegedly destroying records on Communists inside the War Department. And when this boomeranged as untrue, the persistent and revengeful senator from Wisconsin claimed that McCloy had arranged for commissions to be given to American Communists during the war.

Actually, McCloy had argued inside the War Department that Japanese-American, German-Americans, members of the Fascist Silver Shirts and American Communists all should be allowed to fight for their country if they were found to be loyal; and that the test should be not membership in one of these groups or organizations but individual loyalty to the U. S. A. He argued first that it was unfair to other Americans to let these men off from combat duty, second that if they showed unquestioned loyalty to their country they should have the same chance in the Army as anyone else.

The decision, incidentally was not McCloy's alone, but was concurred in by the general staff and secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, a distinguished patriot who also served as secretary of war in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Caracas Conference

The problem that John Foster Dulles faces at Caracas, Venezuela, is that the Soviet Universal State has successfully penetrated an area in Latin America; has established a base for operations in Guatemala; has disaffected both Hondurases and Costa Rica; is moving rapidly into Cuba and Mexico. British Honduras is at this moment in particular danger of becoming part of the Guatemalan Communist base.

This moves the danger from the realm of theory into that of reality. The Panama Canal is imperilled, as anybody can see who reads a map. But equally important, the United States can be isolated from its Latin American neighbors and can be diverted from its world policies to a defense program on the American continents. While our statesmen excite themselves over small politics at home, we are being invaded, in the sense that area that have been important to this country's national existence since Thomas Jefferson was President are being absorbed by our national enemy.

This is the problem and it will not be solved by the current trend toward happy talk which means nothing when historic events rush at terrific speed against us. The realities are grim because involved is our national existence.

While some of our so-called statesmen continue to view without alarm, in their relaxing material comforts, the penetration into our own government, they cannot ignore the base established in Guatemala by the Kremlin, or the pressures upon other countries, particularly Costa Rica, Cuba and Mexico. Dulles is facing up to the situation realistically and fearlessly but he may be late.

The "Good Neighbor Policy" of the Roosevelt administration, devised by Stanley High and carried forward by Nelson Rockefeller, proved to be a failure, not so much because the program was wrong but because of the "Europe First Policy," which diverted attention from both China and Latin America. Russia took advantage of the diversion to conquer China and to penetrate Latin America. When one reviews all the facts, it stands clear that even when the United States was an ally of Soviet Russia, the latter was making salient moves against this country.

The harm done in Latin America can be undone but not by a casual policy or by failure to act effectively. One of the first necessities is a full understanding with the Argentine, with the very Peron whom our left wing geniuses painted as a bad dictator while they were supporting Stalin as a good dictator. Person can add to our strength; without him our difficulties will be multiplied many times.

President Eisenhower apparently recognized the period early and sent his brother, Milton, to Latin America where he made an excellent impression and gained important information as to what ought to be done. What influence Milton Eisenhower's report had upon State Department thinking, I do not know, but it would seem, from events, to have been significant. By sending Milton Eisenhower to Latin America and the vice president, Richard Nixon, to Asia, the President got an objective view of our two most perilous situations. In doing it that way, the President was wiser than most of us thought at that time.

The Caracas Conference, it is hoped, will achieve a direct anti-Soviet attitude in Latin America. Anything less will be a defeat for the United States and therefore a victory for Soviet Russia. A compromise will mean nothing. The rest of the world will watch Caracas for a sign of American strength on the home continents.

As it is expected that there is to be no success at Geneva in April, it is as essential for American prestige as for realities of our historic role that Caracas should not be a failure. The Geneva Conference is already hopeless. France and Canada are already openly indicating a desire to recognize Red China as a realistic approach to that problem. For the United States, such recognition is not realistic at all. It means a total defeat in the Korean War; it means that conquest of Southeast Asia by the Soviet Universal State and the exclusion of the United States from that continent. It means that again, as after our military defeat in Korea, each nation will have to reassess its position vis-a-vis the United States and Russia. It will increase neutralism.

Should Caracas be successful, it could have some effect on Geneva.

Here And Now

Smile!

Smile awhile,
And as you smile
Another smiles,
And soon there are
Miles and miles of smiles,
And life's worth while
Because you smile.

Today ends "National Smile Week." Now we may resume our natural expression. However, from the little sampling we have had, many of us may decide to keep it up.

A smile is an asset in business, in politics, in religion. Long-faced sanctimoniousness has been supplanted by smiles and handshakes at church.

There are more things to smile about than smilers. If we all had a sense of humor and could see the funny side as well as the more serious aspects of life, our social relationships would be happier and smoother.

Not all smiles are spontaneous, some are disingenuous. There are sugary smiles, sarcastic, sardonic, — all expressive of prevailing moods, either benign or malevolent.

Good Humor Cultivable

Good humor is cultivable. It is often sparked by some anecdote, some bon mot or waggish remark as we sit vis-a-vis at the lunch table, or stroll in the park. Then follow a feast of reason and a flow of soul that will aid digestion and lengthen life.

"How did you find your steak?" inquired the obliging waitress. "By lifting up a potato chip," you reply, and everybody chuckles.

Or your tailor friend remarks, "Your coat is too short," and you reply, "It will be long before I get another."

In such pleasantries you either see humor, or you don't. Nothing can be done about it.

I asked a man what was the funniest joke he ever heard. He replied, "Don't embarrass me! God made me, and He made a daisy."

Does God have a sense of humor? He must have, or He wouldn't have made so many people who are jokes." We have it on good authority that "He who sits in the heavens laughs". (Psalms 2:4).

Like Little Jack Horner

The way we humans behave must incite God's risibles. Like Lilliputians, we make "much ado about nothing", magnify our importance, make mountains out of molehills, fight and devour one another.

Benjamin Franklin, so the story goes, thought that if he didn't oil the wheels of the universe every morning it would run down. The story is apochryphal, but there are modern versions.

With apologies to "Little Jack Horner" of Mother Goose fame:

Little Joe McCarthy
Went for his party
To eat "subversive" pie;
He put in his thumb
And pulled out a plum,
Said, "What a good boy am I."

Brevity is the soul of wit. Repartee is a clever, ready and witty retort, such as any one would say if he had time to think about it.

The professor of chemistry was lecturing on the properties of various acids before his class. "Now," he said, "I'm going to drop this half-dollar into this glass of acid. Will it dissolve?"

"No, sir," replied one of the students. "Then, perhaps, you will explain why it won't dissolve."

"Because," came the answer, "if it would, you wouldn't drop it in."

Cheerful Heart Good Medicine

His daddy replied: "When you are old enough you will discover that the law protects a man who is not able to protect himself."

If a man marries one wife, that is "monotony." If two, that is "bigotry," and if three, that is "trigonometry" (sic).

A preacher was wakened one night by a prowler in his room. He had his wits about him and coolly asked, "What are you looking for?"

"I'm looking for money," the burglar replied. "Then wait till I dress, and I'll help you."

"A cheerful heart is a good medicine, but a downcast spirit dries up the bones." (Proverbs 17:22).

Man is the only animal capable of laughing. His mentality and character are often indexed by this faculty, as well as by his speech.

He can giggle, chortle, guffaw, titter, smirk, grin. President Eisenhower has a most engaging grin, and he has need for it.

"Teddy" Roosevelt's expansive grin showed determination and driving power. It was said that when he reached heaven, he asked St. Peter for a task worthy of his powers.

He was appointed to organize a choir. He found plenty of soprano voices, fewer altos, not so many tenors, and no bases.

In desperation, he finally said, tenors, and no basses.

Ecclesiastes says "there is a time to laugh." There is also a time to refrain from laughing, and a time to know what to laugh about.

Smilingly yours,

Tucker County Sells Two Old School Buildings

Survey Shows Water Systems Inadequate

PARSONS — The Tucker County Board of Education confirmed the sale of two school properties at their meeting Wednesday in the office of the county superintendent of schools. The Cross School building and land which has been rented to William Brison Hedrick, Jr., of Clover District was sold to him for the purchase price of $100. In the report, two, two-room schools, St. George, and Flanagan Hill, had unapproved water supplies. The Board authorized the county superintendent of schools, Stelman W. Harper to take necessary steps to obtain an approved water supply for the two schools. The Flanagan Hill School could sponsor a hot lunch program if the school had an adequate water supply system.

Meyersdale To Decorate For Its Maple Festival

MEYERSDALE, Pa.—For the first time in the history of the Somerset County Maple Festival, plans are underway to decorate the community in a big way for the annual event. This will be one of the outstanding changes made in the annual program this year.

Preliminary reports indicate the entire community is getting back of the movement to decorate the town.

Huge maple leafs and banners will be strung across the main streets of Meyersdale. Cloth for the maple leafs has been donated and cut into shape of a maple leaf. Members of Meyersdale Lions Club are forming wires into shape. Headed by members of the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, numerous women have agreed to sew the cloth to the wires.

Vocational agriculture students under sponsorship of Charles A. Darrah will spray the leaves with yellow, red and green paint.

The Maple Festival committee is having three feet square banners made of cloth on which will be painted a maple leaf and the words: "Welcome—Annual Somerset County Maple Festival." These banners will be used in the center of a line stretching across the main streets. On each side will be three or four maple leafs and red, white and blue bunting.

The Meyersdale Garden Club has undertaken the project of aiding merchants and businessman to put in store and window displays to depict the maple industry, antiques and agricultural interests.

An effort will also be made to have individual businesses in the community decorate the fronts of their stores with patriotic or other type bunting.

At all main entrances to the community, large welcome banners will be strung, inviting visitors from far and wide to participate in the festivities.

In the festival's early years, there was no concerted effort to decorate the community. It is felt the present program will add greatly to the interest in the occasion and at the same time give a brilliant background to the entire program and the unusual maple industry.

Oakland Hotel Loses License To Sell Beer

Attorneys Indicate Appeal To Be Filed

Following a hearing before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, the beer license of Margaret Fay Sheehe for the Manhattan Hotel in Oakland has been ordered revoked.

The decision was released in an opinion prepared by the board's attorney, and signed by S. F. Stahl and Jonas W. Sines, two of the three-man board. The third member, J. Edward Helbig, is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Attorneys for Mrs. Sheehe announced they would appeal the decision to the Garrett County Circuit Court.

The hearing was on whether or not the license should be suspended or revoked. In the opinion of the board it was stated the gist of the argument offered by counsel for Mrs. Sheehe was that "the convictions of James McNelis and Richard Sheehe for the sale of alcoholic beverages other than beer on the premises known as the Manhattan Hotel in the town of Oakland, was the first offense, while the sajd Margaret Fay Sheehe held said license, and that therefore, the decision of this board should be the same as that given to other licensees convicted of first offense. The counsel for Margaret Fay Sheehe admitted that it was regular and lawful to revoke said license following a conviction for the first time of the sale of illegal liquor.

"The board cannot help but take judicial notice of the operations of the Manhattan Hotel in Oakland and also consider the evidence offered as to the holder of trader's license for the premises. The board feels that it has a duty to uphold the law and to see that the laws are interpreted according to the spirit as well as the letter of the same. The board further feels that it is for the best interest of the people of Garrett County, that the class D beer license issued to Margaret Fay Sheehe be evoked."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Meyersdale To Decorate For Its Maple Festival

MEYERSDALE, Pa.—For the first time in the history of the Somerset County Maple Festival, plans are underway to decorate the community in a big way for the annual event. This will be one of the outstanding changes made in the annual program this year.

Preliminary reports indicate the entire community is getting back of the movement to decorate the town.

Huge maple leafs and banners will be strung across the main streets of Meyersdale. Cloth for the maple leafs has been donated and cut into shape of a maple leaf. Members of Meyersdale Lions Club are forming wires into shape. Headed by members of the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, numerous women have agreed to sew the cloth to the wires.

Vocational agriculture students under sponsorship of Charles A. Darrah will spray the leaves with yellow, red and green paint.

The Maple Festival committee is having three feet square banners made of cloth on which will be painted a maple leaf and the words: "Welcome—Annual Somerset County Maple Festival." These banners will be used in the center of a line stretching across the main streets. On each side will be three or four maple leafs and red, white and blue bunting.

The Meyersdale Garden Club has undertaken the project of aiding merchants and businessman to put in store and window displays to depict the maple industry, antiques and agricultural interests.

An effort will also be made to have individual businesses in the community decorate the fronts of their stores with patriotic or other type bunting.

At all main entrances to the community, large welcome banners will be strung, inviting visitors from far and wide to participate in the festivities.

In the festival's early years, there was no concerted effort to decorate the community. It is felt the present program will add greatly to the interest in the occasion and at the same time give a brilliant background to the entire program and the unusual maple industry.

Oakland Hotel Loses License To Sell Beer

Attorneys Indicate Appeal To Be Filed

Following a hearing before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, the beer license of Margaret Fay Sheehe for the Manhattan Hotel in Oakland has been ordered revoked.

The decision was released in an opinion prepared by the board's attorney, and signed by S. F. Stahl and Jonas W. Sines, two of the three-man board. The third member, J. Edward Helbig, is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Attorneys for Mrs. Sheehe announced they would appeal the decision to the Garrett County Circuit Court.

The hearing was on whether or not the license should be suspended or revoked. In the opinion of the board it was stated the gist of the argument offered by counsel for Mrs. Sheehe was that "the convictions of James McNelis and Richard Sheehe for the sale of alcoholic beverages other than beer on the premises known as the Manhattan Hotel in the town of Oakland, was the first offense, while the said Margaret Fay Sheehe held said license, and that therefore, the decision of this board should be the same as that given to other licensees convicted of first offense. The counsel for Margaret Fay Sheehe admitted that it was regular and lawful to revoke said license following a conviction for the first time of the sale of illegal liquor.

"The board cannot help but take judicial notice of the operations of the Manhattan Hotel in Oakland and also consider the evidence offered as to the holder of trader's license for the premises. The board feels that it has a duty to uphold the law and to see that the laws are interpreted according to the spirit as well as the letter of the same. The board further feels that it is for the best interest of the people of Garrett County, that the class D beer license issued to Margaret Fay Sheehe be evoked."

Kiwanis Receive Freedom Foundation Service Scroll

KEYSER — The Support of Churches activities of Keyser Kiwanis Club, in conjunction with similar work done by other Kiwanis clubs across the continent, has been recognized by a Distinguished Service Scroll and a $50 cash award by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa., announced A. K. VanScoy, president of the Keyser Club.

This award was won by Kiwanis International in competition with hundreds of entries to the awards juries of the Freedoms Foundation. The award gives to Kiwanis the distinction of being recognized by this organization for the fourth year for its meritorious community services. The Foundation is a non-profit, non-political and non-sectarian organization that is actively working to promote more personal participation in citizenship functions and the furthering of the American way of life.

Kiwanians firmly believe that in the church lies the strength of the country, the community and the individual, and their support of church programs is dedicated to encouraging in every way possible the more active participation of all citizens of all the communities in the affairs of the churches of their own choosing.

Kiwanians, in striving to raise moral standards in the country, stress such themes as: "Regular Attendance at Church should be a lifetime habit" and "Don't Wait until Easter — Start Going to Church Now."

In announcing the award, club president A. K. Van Scoy believes "that the success of the Support the Churches Activities attests a spiritual reawakening of the people of our country and a strengthening of the moral standards throughout the country."

Expert Will Fight Gas Rate Boost

A consulting engineer, a specialist in utility rate cases, has tentatively been retained to fight the people's side in the C&A Gas Company's rate increase request.

After the two-day hearing before the Public Service Commission in Baltimore this week, during which the firm presented voluminous statistical, engineering and financial data, the firm of Martin Toscan Bennett of Washington was hired.

The state will pay the brunt of the fee, and subject to the approval of the Mayor and Council and Board of Allegany County Commissioners, the city and county will probably pay small and equal contributions to the "war chest."

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Gorman C. Getty, county attorney, who participated for the county residents in the two-day hearing that ended Thursday, said Bennett and his staff had figured prominently in a number of rate cases involving the Manufacturers Heat and Light Company of Pittsburgh, parent firm of the C&A Company, and numerous other utility rate cases on behalf of the people's side.

Bennett's firm was hired at a conference of Joseph Allen, people's counsel to the PSC, and commission members.

During this session, the group discussed retaining Bennett as an expert analyst and witness to assist in the preparation of cross examination of the C&A Company's expert witnesses.

Will Aid Rebuttal

Bennett and his staff will also assist in the preparation of rebuttal testimony to be presented when the hearing resumes before the Public Service Commission in June.

Finan and Getty said E. Edward McLean, chief auditor for the Public Service Commission, and his assistants will go to Pittsburgh to examine the books of the Manufacturers Heat and Light Company, before the June session.

At the same time Hugh H. Hunter, PSC chief engineer, will analyze the rate structure of the C&A Company as presented in volumes of statistics at the two-day hearing this week.

Claim Return Too Low

The firm's witnesses presented this maze of information to maintain its position that its present rate of return on its investment was 3.2 per cent, a figure termed "confiscatory" by John W. Avirett II, Baltimore attorney who appeared in behalf of the C&A.

It was shown, Getty and Finan reported, that a different figure for depreciation is used in regard to income tax returns than the depreciation figures shown in exhibits filed by the company with the PSC.

The C&A introduced testimony to the effect that depreciation should be different for tax purposes from depreciation for rate making purposes.

Finan and Getty questioned the C&A witnesses about the Terra Alta gas field. It was brought out that the firm purchased the Schnee and Eberly field of 12,000 acres at Terra Alta, in 1951 for $4,500,000, and immediately added this amount to its rate base.

Utilities are allowed about a 6 per cent return on their investments in the establishment of rates by the PSC. The C&A is asking an increase of 16 per cent in Maryland income and 23 per cent in West Virginia.

Tell Of Purchase

The utility, in answer to questions by Finan and Getty, stated that prior to purchasing the field, C&A was able to buy gas from Schnee and Eberly for 19 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Since the purchase, the company has charged itself 25 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas from this field and the company claims that this latest price is what it actually costs to produce.

The company was further questioned by Finan and Getty as to whether or not in considering the tentative earnings for next year it had taken into consideration 2,000 new space consumers in Allegany County which the PSC has ordered it to serve.

The company replied it had not taken this revenue into consideration and hastened to reply that the reason was that it didn't know how much it would cost the company to give service to 2,000 new customers.

Finan and Getty asked counsel for the gas company if most of the expense that would be required in serving these new customers had not already been made.

The local attorneys said there was no definite answer forthcoming.

The company said there are 4,097 space heaters in Allegany and Garrett counties, principally in Cumberland, and counsel for the intervenors pointed out the 2,000 new customers amounts to almost 50 per cent of the number now served.

William C. Walsh, attorney for the Big Savage Refractories, one of the six principal industrial users of natural gas in Allegany and Garrett counties, asked the utility whether its original petition stated the rate request would produce a return of 6.5 per cent on its investment, whereas testimony at the hearing indicated only a 5.6 per cent return.

C. A. Massa, C&A vice president, in reply admitted an error in the original calculations.

Expert Will Fight Gas Rate Boost

A consulting engineer, a specialist in utility rate cases, has tentatively been retained to fight the people's side in the C&A Gas Company's rate increase request.

After the two-day hearing before the Public Service Commission in Baltimore this week, during which the firm presented voluminous statistical, engineering and financial data, the firm of Martin Toscan Bennett of Washington was hired.

The state will pay the brunt of the fee, and subject to the approval of the Mayor and Council and Board of Allegany County Commissioners, the city and county will probably pay small and equal contributions to the "war chest."

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Gorman C. Getty, county attorney, who participated for the county residents in the two-day hearing that ended Thursday, said Bennett and his staff had figured prominently in a number of rate cases involving the Manufacturers Heat and Light Company of Pittsburgh, parent firm of the C&A Company, and numerous other utility rate cases on behalf of the people's side.

Bennett's firm was hired at a conference of Joseph Allen, people's counsel to the PSC, and commission members.

During this session, the group discussed retaining Bennett as an expert analyst and witness to assist in the preparation of cross examination of the C&A Company's expert witnesses.

Will Aid Rebuttal

Bennett and his staff will also assist in the preparation of rebuttal testimony to be presented when the hearing resumes before the Public Service Commission in June.

Finan and Getty said E. Edward McLean, chief auditor for the Public Service Commission, and his assistants will go to Pittsburgh to examine the books of the Manufacturers Heat and Light Company, before the June session.

At the same time Hugh H. Hunter, PSC chief engineer, will analyze the rate structure of the C&A Company as presented in volumes of statistics at the two-day hearing this week.

Claim Return Too Low

The firm's witnesses presented this maze of information to maintain its position that its present rate of return on its investment was 3.2 per cent, a figure termed "confiscatory" by John W. Avirett II, Baltimore attorney who appeared in behalf of the C&A.

It was shown, Getty and Finan reported, that a different figure for depreciation is used in regard to income tax returns than the depreciation figures shown in exhibits filed by the company with the PSC.

The C&A introduced testimony to the effect that depreciation should be different for tax purposes from depreciation for rate making purposes.

Finan and Getty questioned the C&A witnesses about the Terra Alta gas field. It was brought out that the firm purchased the Schnee and Eberly field of 12,000 acres at Terra Alta, in 1951 for $4,500,000, and immediately added this amount to its rate base.

Utilities are allowed about a 6 per cent return on their investments in the establishment of rates by the PSC. The C&A is asking an increase of 16 per cent in Maryland income and 23 per cent in West Virginia.

Tell Of Purchase

The utility, in answer to questions by Finan and Getty, stated that prior to purchasing the field, C&A was able to buy gas from Schnee and Eberly for 19 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Since the purchase, the company has charged itself 25 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas from this field and the company claims that this latest price is what it actually costs to produce.

The company was further questioned by Finan and Getty as to whether or not in considering the tentative earnings for next year it had taken into consideration 2,000 new space consumers in Allegany County which the PSC has ordered it to serve.

The company replied it had not taken this revenue into consideration and hastened to reply that the reason was that it didn't know how much it would cost the company to give service to 2,000 new customers.

Finan and Getty asked counsel for the gas company if most of the expense that would be required in serving these new customers had not already been made.

The local attorneys said there was no definite answer forthcoming.

The company said there are 4,097 space heaters in Allegany and Garrett counties, principally in Cumberland, and counsel for the intervenors pointed out the 2,000 new customers amounts to almost 50 per cent of the number now served.

William C. Walsh, attorney for the Big Savage Refractories, one of the six principal industrial users of natural gas in Allegany and Garrett counties, asked the utility whether its original petition stated the rate request would produce a return of 6.5 per cent on its investment, whereas testimony at the hearing indicated only a 5.6 per cent return.

C. A. Massa, C&A vice president, in reply admitted an error in the original calculations.

Allegany Edges Annapolis, 53-51; Bruce And Piedmont Win

Bob Kirtley's Goal Decides State Contest

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Is Campers' Opponent In Title Tilt Tonight

COLLEGE PARK, March 12 (AP) — Guard Bob Kirtley's push shot with three seconds remaining gave Allegany of Cumberland a 53-51 victory over Annapolis tonight in Class A semi-finals of the Maryland Scholastic basketball tournament.

The Campers will play Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School for the Class A championship at Ritchie Coliseum Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock. Bethesda-Chevy Chase defeated Wicomico High of Salisbury in tonight's final Class A contest by the score of 67-58.

The win by Allegany, before 3,500 fans at Ritchie Coliseum here, was its 23rd victory against one loss this season.

Annapolis had led throughout the second half and was ahead 51-48 with a minute and 45 seconds remaining, but Dave Steele's three foul shots tied it up at 30 seconds to go.

Annapolis controlled the ball, waiting for a last shot, but missed with nine seconds left. Kirtley moved down court and pitched in the winning goal as the final seconds ticked off.

Kirtley also led scoring for both teams with 21 points on 10 field goals and one free throw. Steele had 18 points for Allegany and Bob Baldree's 15 were high for Annapolis. Lineups:

Middlecoff Ties Kroll In Tourney

Both Post 138 Scores In Baton Rouge Test

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12 (AP) — Tournament favorite Cary Middlecoff scored another windblown sub-par round today to draw into a tie with New Yorker Ted Kroll for a one-stroke lead in the $10,000 Baton Rouge PGA Open.

With most scores soaring in the skittish breezes that buffeted the 6,411-yard Country Club course, the former Memphis dentist posted a 71 alongside his opening day 67 for a total of 138 at the halfway mark.

Kroll, displaying his usual ability to beat the wind with long, low-slung drives, ran into putter trouble and had to scramble on the back nine to keep the pace. The New Hartford, N.Y., professional came in at 72.

A stroke behind the leaders was slim Ed Furgol of St. Louis, who also had to come on with a rush to make the regulation figure after blazing a 67 in the opening round.

PACES SCORERS — Charley Durbin, center of the Southern High quint of Oakland, scored more points than any player in Western Maryland during the 1954 basketball season when he amassed 446 points in 21 games for a 21.2 average. He collected 174 field goals and hooped 98 out of 187 free throws. In the District 1 tourney games here he racked up 24 points against Frederick and 19 against Allegany, scoring eight field goals in each contest. Durbin was third in tri-state area scoring. Bruce May, Hyndman, was the leader with 637 and Terry Fairbanks, Parsons, was the runner-up with 465.

Valdes Defeats James J. Parker

Cuban Cops Decision In Sloppy, Dull Bout

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP) — Nino Valdes, the Cuban heavyweight champion, won his seventh straight victory tonight by outpointing James J. Parker of Paterson, N. J., in a dull, sloppy ten-rounder that brought boos from the fans in Madison Square Garden. Valdes weighed 211½, Parker, 210.

Both fighters came into the ring with impressive knockout records but they exploded no fireworks for the Garden fans and television viewers across the nation. There were no knockdowns in this battle between six-foot, three-inch heavyweights and nothing close to one.

Valdes, ranked as the No. 2 heavyweight contender in the world, won the unanimous decision by a big margin but his victory was far from impressive.

The votes, all for Valdes, were: Referee Barney Felix, 7-3; Judge Jack Gordon 6-3-1, and Judge Arthur Schwartz, 7-2-1. The Associated Press had Valdes in front, 73-.

LaSalle Wins, 88-81, Tom Gola Scores 26

PHILADELPHIA, March 12 (AP) — All-America Tom Gola scored 26 points and grabbed 26 rebounds in a spectacular all around performance tonight to lead La Salle College to an 88-81 victory over North Carolina State in the quarter final round of the NCAA Eastern Regional tournament. Navy won the right to meet La Salle in tomorrow night's semi-final game by edging Cornell 69-67 in the first half of the twin bill on Ken McCally's only field goal of the night with three seconds left.

Marple, Nofsinger Score 30 Points; Play Easton Tonight

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 12 (AP)—Easton High School and Bruce of Westernport fought their way to the Class B finals of the Maryland Scholastic Basketball tournament with semifinals victories here today.

Easton trimmed Lackey of Indian Head 47 to 41, and Bruce downed Federalsburg 57-39. They meet for the Class B title at 7 p. m. tomorrow.

Bruce, led by center Dave Marple and guard Mike Nofsinger with 15 points each, had little trouble after overcoming a 11-9 first quarter lead by Federalsburg. The Allegany Countains jumped in front 28-23 at the half and wrapped it up for all practical purposes in the third period by outshooting Federalsburg 16-4.

Bill Culhane picked up 15 points for Federalsburg to share scoring honors.

Bill Beauchamp with 17 points and George Wilson with 10 paced Easton. Wilson scored three foul shots in the last 53 seconds to put the game out of reach, after Lackey had moved to within one point at 42-41.

Easton lead at the quarter, 15-12, but Lackey edged out in front at the half 22-21, only to have Easton take a 38-32 lead into the final quarter.

Bob Kirtley's Goal Decides State Contest

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Is Campers' Opponent In Title Tilt Tonight

COLLEGE PARK, March 12 (AP) — Guard Bob Kirtley's push shot with three seconds remaining gave Allegany of Cumberland a 53-51 victory over Annapolis tonight in Class A semi-finals of the Maryland Scholastic basketball tournament.

The Campers will play Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School for the Class A championship at Ritchie Coliseum Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock. Bethesda-Chevy Chase defeated Wicomico High of Salisbury in tonight's final Class A contest by the score of 67-58.

The win by Allegany, before 3,500 fans at Ritchie Coliseum here, was its 23rd victory against one loss this season.

Annapolis had led throughout the second half and was ahead 51-48 with a minute and 45 seconds remaining, but Dave Steele's three foul shots tied it up at 30 seconds to go.

Annapolis controlled the ball, waiting for a last shot, but missed with nine seconds left. Kirtley moved down court and pitched in the winning goal as the final seconds ticked off.

Kirtley also led scoring for both teams with 21 points on 10 field goals and one free throw. Steele had 18 points for Allegany and Bob Baldree's 15 were high for Annapolis. Lineups:

Middlecoff Ties Kroll In Tourney

Both Post 138 Scores In Baton Rouge Test

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12 (AP) — Tournament favorite Cary Middlecoff scored another windblown sub-par round today to draw into a tie with New Yorker Ted Kroll for a one-stroke lead in the $10,000 Baton Rouge PGA Open.

With most scores soaring in the skittish breezes that buffeted the 6,411-yard Country Club course, the former Memphis dentist posted a 71 alongside his opening day 67 for a total of 138 at the halfway mark.

Kroll, displaying his usual ability to beat the wind with long, low-slung drives, ran into putter trouble and had to scramble on the back nine to keep the pace. The New Hartford, N.Y., professional came in at 72.

A stroke behind the leaders was slim Ed Furgol of St. Louis, who also had to come on with a rush to make the regulation figure after blazing a 67 in the opening round.

PACES SCORERS — Charley Durbin, center of the Southern High quint of Oakland, scored more points than any player in Western Maryland during the 1954 basketball season wnen he amassed 446 points in 21 games for a 21.2 average. He collected 174 field goals and hooped 98 out of 187 free throws. In the District 1 tourney games here he racked up 24 points against Frederick and 19 against Allegany, scoring eight field goals in each contest. Durbin was third in tri-state area scoring. Bruce May, Hyndman, was the leader with 637 and Terry Fairbanks, Parsons, was the runner-up with 465.

Valdes Defeats James J. Parker

Cuban Cops Decision In Sloppy, Dull Bout

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP) — Nino Valdes, the Cuban heavyweight champion, won his seventh straight victory tonight by outpointing James J. Parker of Patterson, N. J., in a dull, sloppy ten-rounder that brought boos from the fans in Madison Square Garden. Valdes weighed 211½, Parker, 210.

Both fighters came into the ring with impressive knockout records but they exploded no fireworks for the Garden fans and television viewers across the nation. There were no knockdowns in this battle between six-foot, three-inch heavyweights and nothing close to one.

Valdes, ranked as the No. 2 heavyweight contender in the world, won the unanimous decision by a big margin but his victory was far from impressive.

The votes, all for Valdes, were: Referee Barney Felix, 7-3; Judge Jack Gordon 6-3-1, and Judge Arthur Schwartz, 7-2-1. The Associated Press had Valdes in front, 73-.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 12 (AP)—Two field goals and a free throw in the last two minutes 15 seconds gave Pocomoke High School a 40-38 victory over New Windsor today in Class C semi-finals of the Maryland Scholastic Basketball tournament.

The Eastern Shore team will meet Perryville at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow for the Class C title. Perryville advanced with a 38-35 victory over Poolesville after a scoring duel by Fred Loveless and George Walker of the two schools.

New Windsor had held a 36-35 lead going into the closing minutes of the game with Pocomoke. Then Bob Parsons hit a field goal to put Pocomoke in front, 37-36 and Hallett Baile chipped in a field goal and Dave Eberly a free throw while New Windsor was picking up its final two points.

Loveless tallied 15 points, most of them in a successful second half rally staged by Perryville of Cecil County. Welker tried his best to match the performance with 11 points for the Montgomery County team.

Poolesville led throughout the first half and held a 21-17 advantage at the intermission. Loveless scored four straight points to put Perryville ahead for the first time in the game, 27-26, two minutes before the end of the third period.

Welker tied the score and Loveless came through with another basket as the quarter ended.

Poolesville tied the score again at the start of the fourth period and went ahead 30-29. Three more points by Loveless and two by Welker produced another deadlock and Welker broke it with a basket.

Loveless put his team ahead to stay at 35-34 with a basket.

Bobby Niland Gets 26 Points In Area Battle

Rowlesburg Defeated, 74-44; Lions Move To State Tournament

KEYSER, March 12—Piedmont High School qualified for the West Virginia Class B championship tournament at Morgantown next week by defeating Rowlesburg High School's River Lions in the Area Two playoff final tonight at Potomac State College gym by the score of 74-44.

Piedmont and three other area winners will vie for the state championship next weekend at West Virginia University's Field House.

After a close first half Piedmont broke tonight's game wide open in the third period by outscoring the Preston Countians, 22 to 5 and also outscored the River Lions in the final stanza, 24-16.

Bobby Niland was the "big gun" for Coach "Huck" Miers' quint which posted its 25th win in 27 starts and notched its 11th straight triumph. Piedmont's sharp-shooting forward poured in 10 field goals and converted six of nine free throws for a total of 26 points. John Wilson and Charley Felton sparked Rowlesburg with 16 and 11 points.

The score was knotted five times and the lead changed hands seven times. After the count was knotted at 17-all Piedmont pulled away rapidly.

Felton, Nassif and Faris of Rowlesburg and Campbell of Piedmont fouled out.

An all-tournament team of John Wilson and Charles Felton, Rowlesburg, and Robert Niland, Glenn Smith and Charles Miller of Piedmont was named. A trophy for best cheerleaders went to Piedmont while the award for the best cheering section was won by Rowlesburg.

Orioles Annex 14-9 Slugfest

Post Sixth Victory Over Chicago Cubs

YUMA, Ariz., March 12 (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles jammed 12 runs across in their last four innings to defeat the Chicago Cubs 14-9 in a free-swing exhibition contest today, their sixth victory in seven games.

The Cubs had gone ahead 9-6 on home runs in the sixth inning by Bill Serena, Ernie Banks and Hal Jeffcoat that produced five runs. Serena's came with two men on base.

Trailing 9-6 in the bottom of the seventh with two men on, Rookie Outfielder Bob Masser hit a bounding single that got by Dee Fondy's glove scoring two of the Birds' three tallies that frame. Again in the bottom of the eighth, base hits by Jim Dyck, Billy Hunter, Darrell Johnson and Don Lenhardt combined with Fondy's second error on Duane Pillette's squeeze bunt and two bases on balls to give the Orioles four more tallies.

Pillette, who came on for Baltimore at the start of the seventh, held the Cubs scoreless and picked up the win. Jim Willis, the last of three Chicago pitchers, was the loser.

Dick Kryhoski hit the lone homer for the Birds in the fifth with none on, and Masser, playing his first game for Baltimore, had a perfect day, driving in four runs on 3 for 3.

Duquesne Plays Holy Cross In Finals Of NIT

Western Kentucky To Battle Niagara

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP) — Duquesne, perhaps the best defensive team in major college basketball, and Holy Cross, one of the top scoring teams, meet tomorrow night in the final game of the 17th National Invitation basketball tournament.

Western Kentucky and Niagara, losers in Thursday's semi-finals, clash in a preliminary to decide third place.

Palazzi Vs. Ricketts

The final is expected to provide an individual duel between Togo Palazzi, Holy Cross sharpshooter, and Duquesne's Dick Ricketts with the tournament's most valuable player award as the prize.

Duquesne, top-seeded team, seemed to lose some of its spirit after its 22-game winning streak was snapped. Still the Dukes managed to get "up" in time to beat St. Francis of Loretto, Pa. and Niagara in tournament games.

Going into the NIT, the Dukes had a defensive average of 52.9 points a game, just a shade behind Oklahoma A&M in the national records.

Holy Cross, with an 84-point average for the regular season, was fourth in the latest offensive figures. Since then the Crusaders whacked St. Francis of Brooklyn 93-69 and squeezed past second-seeded Western Kentucky 75-69.

Burn Over Officiating

The third-place game could be another high scoring affair if the Western Kentucky lads want to blow off some steam. They still were burning today over officiating in Thursday's game which saw play stopped when a Holy Cross player was hurt but not for a Western Kentucky injury.

Duquesne Plays Holy Cross In Finals Of NIT

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP) — Duquesne, perhaps the best defensive team in major college basketball, and Holy Cross, one of the top scoring teams, meet tomorrow night in the final game of the 17th National Invitation basketball tournament.

Western Kentucky and Niagara, losers in Thursday's semi-finals, clash in a preliminary to decide third place.

Palazzi Vs. Ricketts

The final is expected to provide an individual duel between Togo Palazzi, Holy Cross sharpshooter, and Duquesne's Dick Ricketts with the tournament's most valuable player award as the prize.

Duquesne, top-seeded team, seemed to lose some of its spirit after its 22-game winning streak was snapped. Still the Dukes managed to get "up" in time to beat St. Francis of Loretto, Pa. and Niagara in tournament games.

Going into the NIT, the Dukes had a defensive average of 52.9 points a game, just a shade behind Oklahoma A&M in the national records.

Holy Cross, with an 84-point average for the regular season, was fourth in the latest offensive figures. Since then the Crusaders whacked St. Francis of Brooklyn 93-69 and squeezed past second-seeded Western Kentucky 75-69.

Burn Over Officiating

The third-place game could be another high scoring affair if the Western Kentucky lads want to blow off some steam. They still were burning today over officiating in Thursday's game which saw play stopped when a Holy Cross player was hurt but not for a Western Kentucky injury.

Youngsters are always "cute"—whether they're the woolly type or the romper variety.

Youngsters are appealing because they are fascinating miniatures of the adult of the species. So tiny . . . yet they look, and soon begin to act, like smaller editions of the grown-ups.

That fact should make human parents deeply conscious of their responsibility. Their own example and influence, and their provision for the child's spiritual needs can make or mar a youngster's character.

Churches are the chief allies of conscientious parents. They provide consecrated Christian teachers, interesting graded lessons and the inspiring worshipful setting for a child's moral and spiritual training.

Will you help some church in this vital phase of its work? Will you attend and support the Church? Will you encourage parents you know to give their children the advantage of the Church's teaching ministry?

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Youngsters are always "cute"—whether they're the woolly type or the romper variety.

Youngsters are appealing because they are fascinating miniatures of the adult of the species. So tiny . . . yet they look, and soon begin to act, like smaller editions of the grown-ups.

That fact should make human parents deeply conscious of their responsibility. Their own example and influence, and their provision for the child's spiritual needs can make or mar a youngster's character.

Churches are the chief allies of conscientious parents. They provide consecrated Christian teachers, interesting graded lessons and the inspiring worshipful setting for a child's moral and spiritual training.

Will you help some church in this vital phase of its work? Will you attend and support the Church? Will you encourage parents you know to give their children the advantage of the Church's teaching ministry?

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Somewhere I read that Barbara Stanwyck is going to make her next picture for United Artists. Well, that isn't true.

Barbara's next picture is at Columbia, for Jerry Wald. She will co-star with Glenn Ford in "The Bandits."

Our girl, who makes more pictures than anyone in the whole world because she likes to work (look who's talking about working 24 hours a day!), hasn't been at Columbia since 1938, when she made "Golden Boy" with William Holden.

She reports the last of this month and she'll have Lewis Rachmil as her producer, and Rudy Mate as director. Pretty May Wynn also has a top role in the Cinemascope Western.

There's a resemblance between 18-year-old Robert Dix and his late father, Richard Dix, who was one of the greatest matinee idols of the silent days.

Young Robert did a dramatic reading at MGM and was so good that Dore Schary signed him for Esther Williams and Howard Keel's next picture, "Jupiter's Darling." Robert has been doing summer stock in the East, but will now devote his time to the screen.

I became a fan of Torin Thatcher's after I saw him as the Roman Senator Marcellus' father in "The Robe." He has such dignity and is such a good actor, both on the stage and screen.

Jack Warner tells me that he is sending Thatcher to Rome for "Helen of Troy." He'll report to Director Robert Wise for an important role. Rossane Podestra (Helen) and Jacques Sernas (Paris) have already started rehearsals.

If all the biographies on Marilyn Monroe are written, we'll have a full dozen. I already have one on my desk by Joe Franklin and Laurie Palmer.

Now I am told Ben Hecht is writing the Marilyn Monroe story, which will be published in book form by Doubleday after it's serialized by one of the top magazines.

Ben did most of his interviews with Marilyn before she went to Korea and before she and "Pink Tights" had a falling out. Now he's gathering additional material from her friends.

This I'm sorry to hear: Merle Oberon is leaving the 23rd of this month to spend a year in Europe. She has rented her beautiful Bel Air home to hte Leland Haywards, and what a charming house it is, with all her lovely paintings and so tastefully furnished.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Take time for a little nap during the day and you'll make up the time quickly in increased efficiency, regardless of what your work may be.

Besides, a bit of sleep during the day is a great beautifier. When you sleep, your muscles relax and the lines in your face smooth away to invisibility. Your eyes are brighter after the refreshing period of respite. And when you arise, you inevitably stand in a straighter posture as the reward of recovery from fatigue.

Even ten minutes of napping can be beneficial. Fifteen or twenty minutes can be a great boon.

With the always-present round of uncompleted tasks, many a homemaker and mother has a feeling of guilt in stealing such precious moments for herself. But this is a mistaken attitude. Business today has come to the frank realization that every worker's efficiency is improved by a break in routine, both during the morning and in the afternoon. A homemaker can benefit by the same relief.

The careerist will find her evening of far greater value if she takes a napping break shortly after arriving at home following her busy day.

To get the most of a short nap, it is important to master the art of "turning off the mind." Click the switch to your brain and allow no thoughts of problems or unfinished tasks to get through. You can learn to think "nothingness"—a little practice is all it takes.

As an aid to achieving this goal, sit on the edge of your bed just before you plan to nap. Let your head fall over your knees in the most relaxed slump that you can achieve. Then sit up again and let your head fall and loll to the right, over your chest, then to the left and lastly as far back as it will. Let it loll round and round as relaxed as possible.

Then place the palms of your hands over your eyes, blanking out everything. The lovely blackness that blocks your gaze is a sleep-inducing factor. Now, lie back on your pillow and place a couple of eye pads treated with special eye lotion over your eyes. They are wonderful refreshers that will relax and give sparkle to your eyes on awakening.

Take time for a nap! It has been the secret of many of the greatest workers of the world, enabling them to accomplish prodigious and amazing feats. And never forget—a nap also is one of the greatest secrets of beauty!

Assessor Applicants To Be Interviewed

Interviews for three applicants for the position of assessor in Allegany County will be held Friday, March 19, at noon in Baltimore by the State Tax Commission.

Albert W. Ward, executive secretary of the commission, said after the interviews the men will be graded by the state agency and the results sent here to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. A selection by the board will then be made.

The three applicants are Francis J. Plummer, RD 1, Frostburg; Maynard Hasenbuhler, 511 Eichner Avenue, and James E. Bangerd, 511 Frederick Street. Plummer is employed in the land records office at the Court House and Hasenbuhler is employed in the mapping and survey work for the Assessing Department.

Child Welfare Meet Is Planned Tomorrow

Mountain District, American Legion, child welfare workers will meet tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Farrady Post Home, Frostburg, according to Edward Nolan, district child welfare chairman.

The session has been called for child welfare chairmen, presidents and commanders of Legion posts and their auxiliaries, and representatives from 40 and 8 and 8 and 40 units.

Among those attending will be Dr. Jerome S. Cullen, Baltimore, and Samuel A. Graham, Cumberland, members of the Maryland Department, American Legion, child welfare commission.

Woodsman Is Hurt

Clark Glynne, 27, of Westernport, was admitted Thursday to Sacred Heart Hospital for X-rays and treatment after suffering from an injury to his right leg while working in woods near his home. Attaches said he was struck by a tractor.

Truck Drivers Get Wage Hike

Automatic wage increases are provided in the contract between area bakeries and Local 453 Teamsters Union (AFL), which became effective March 1, according to C. E. Stutzman, union business agent.

Stutzman said that the third year of a three-year pact started March 1. Bakeries which are covered by the agreement include Schmidt, Community, Ort and McIntyre.

Under terms of the pact the route salesmen will receive a one-half per cent increase in commissions and $2 weekly on their base rate. All mechanics covered in the agreement will receive $2.50 per week increase, regular truckers (who handle items other than bread deliveries) will receive $3.75 per week increase.

Feeder truck drivers (which haul bread and similar products to outlying communities in the Tri-State area) will receive a $4.25 weekly increase. All route foremen will receive a $5 weekly pay raise.

The pact provides for three weeks vacation with pay for all workers with 12 or more years service. About 100 workers are effected by the increased benefits, Stutzman said.

Youth Injured In Fall

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Somewhere I read that Barbara Stanwyck is going to make her next picture for United Artists. Well, that isn't true.

Barbara's next picture is at Columbia, for Jerry Wald. She will co-star with Glenn Ford in "The Bandits."

Our girl, who makes more pictures than anyone in the whole world because she likes to work (look who's talking about working 24 hours a day!), hasn't been at Columbia since 1938, when she made "Golden Boy" with William Holden.

She reports the last of this month and she'll have Lewis Rachmil as her producer, and Rudy Mate as director. Pretty May Wynn also has a top role in the Cinemascope Western.

There's a resemblance between 18-year-old Robert Dix and his late father, Richard Dix, who was one of the greatest matinee idols of the silent days.

Young Robert did a dramatic reading at MGM and was so good that Dore Schary signed him for Esther Williams and Howard Keel's next picture, "Jupiter's Darling." Robert has been doing summer stock in the East, but will now devote his time to the screen.

I became a fan of Torin Thatcher's after I saw him as the Roman Senator Marcellus' father in "The Robe." He has such dignity and is such a good actor, both on the stage and screen.

Jack Warner tells me that he is sending Thatcher to Rome for "Helen of Troy." He'll report to Director Robert Wise for an important role. Rossane Podestra (Helen) and Jacques Sernas (Paris) have already started rehearsals.

If all the biographies on Marilyn Monroe are written, we'll have a full dozen. I already have one on my desk by Joe Franklin and Laurie Palmer.

Now I am told Ben Hecht is writing the Marilyn Monroe story, which will be published in book form by Doubleday after it's serialized by one of the top magazines.

Ben did most of his interviews with Marilyn before she went to Korea and before she and "Pink Tights" had a falling out. Now he's gathering additional material from her friends.

This I'm sorry to hear: Merle Oberon is leaving the 23rd of this month to spend a year in Europe. She has rented her beautiful Bel Air home to hte Leland Haywards, and what a charming house it is, with all her lovely paintings and so tastefully furnished.

"There are so many pictures waiting for me in Europe," Merle said.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Progress Report

So what's happening to educational television? Here in New York it has had perhaps the roughest going anywhere in the country, largely because the Board of Regents plan for 10 state-supported TV stations failed to get financial support from the legislature.

John Crosby

Consequently, while other communities like Chicago and St. Louis were raising private funds for educational TV, New Yorkers sat around on their hands waiting for the legislature to do it for them. When that hope went glimmering, an organization called the Metropolitan Educational Association was formed to set up an educational TV station with private funds.

Well, the Metropolitan, which may in time be as well known as the Metropolitan Opera and the Metropolitan Museum, has a promise of $250,000 from the Ford Foundation if it can raise a matching $250,000 and it almost certainly can. The Metropolitan will seek $750,000 to start operations and would really like to have $1,000,000. But educational TV is far from imminent in New York City. For one thing, a bill in the legislature has a section that in effect, would ban all controversial matter. The educators say they simply couldn't teach with such a millstone around their neck.

If the bill is delayed, educational TV is at least a year away. When and if Channel 25 gets underway, it will be available to 110 schools, colleges, museums and such educational non-profit outfits with which New York City is loaded. There should be plenty of talent available.

At the moment, the most active agency in the educational TV field is New York University, a private university which is not to be confused with New York State University. I had a talk with Dr. David D. Henry, vice chancellor of N.Y.U. and a great enthusiast for educational TV. Among other things, Dr. Henry thinks educational TV can do tremendous things for the preschool child of from two to five years.

Children in that age bracket learn faster than anyone else. Yet this group is still the great void in the American public school system. There are no free schools for this group because there isn't any money. Dr. Henry points out that, while this group is too young for numbers and letters, they rapidly absorb cultural and language concepts and attitudes toward society which are of vast help to them later on.

N.Y.U. now has four educational shows on the air all staffed by N.Y.U. teachers. Practically all teachers, it has been discovered, have a bit of ham in them. It's no problem at all to get them to undertake a television show on their own time for free. However, after the first flush of enthusiasm dies, TV teaching becomes just another chore and the teachers become restive. Eventually, Dr. Henry thinks, the teachers will have to be paid for this extra work.

There is an audience for educational television and while it is very small by commercial standards, it is very large by university standards. For instance, N.Y.U.'s program "Today's English" (now off the air) offered a syllabus for $1. Twenty-two hundred people bought it—which is a very large English class. Letters came from all sorts of people ranging from doctors and lawyers to people who could barely write English. Foreign-born, who had just got to this country, were wonderstruck that someone would bother to teach them English for nothing in their own livingrooms.

Right now N.Y.U. has four shows, all on commercial stations. They are "Here Is the Past (on archeology), "Animals Are Fun" (biology), "Our Goodly Heritage" (on the Bible), and "University" (which aims to teach what a university is and what it does.)

It's hard to tell what people will take to, Dr. Lewis says. He says he never would have thought that archeology was particularly suited to TV teaching but it has had a tremendous following.

Daily Bridge Lesson

FARTHER DOWN IN DECK

PRACTICALLY every play which usually is made with the highest cards in a suit may be made also with those farther down in the deck. That applies to squeezes, throw-ins and the several coups. One of those is the so-called 'Bath coup," supposed to have been originated decades ago, in the days of Whist, during a game at the famous European watering place of that name. Generally thought of as playing low from an ace-jack in the closed hand, when the king is led from a king-queen, to lure a second lead into the combination, it also may be used a step lower, or on rare occasions, maybe two steps.

There you find a brilliant and imaginative player of the gambling type shooting for a top score on this tournament deal, with the idea that one more good score might win the event for him and his partner. Finding practically any kind of asset in his partner's hand, even the diamond Q, could give him a game on his funny bid.

With no knowledge of the suit-lengths, West soundly made his natural lead of the diamond Q. South, equally soundly, did all of his thinking before playing any card. Reading West as probably holding four cards of the suit, he hoped East would have a fairly high singleton, which could look like an encouraging card. He was delighted to see that worthy put the 7 on the trick, whereat he without hesitation plumped on the 8. He hoped that West, not seeing either the 5 or 2, would reckon his partner held one or both of those cards and was using the 8 as an encourager, with South making an ordinary hold-up from two or three headed by the A.

South had counted up eight positive tricks if he had won the first lead and then had given up a couple of diamonds to West—unless a suit-shift ruined him. But, if West would repeat the suit, he would have nine tricks. Sure enough, West fell for the ruse and led the diamond J to the second trick, hoping East had something like the K-10-7-5-2 and South only the A-8. The A took that trick, the K and 10 assured the running of the suit and the four side top cards completed nine and game, only game made by anybody on the deal.

Your Week-end Question

Do you understand the signal known as "the three trump echo?" Can you give definite examples of its value in actual play? Or can you construct a hypothetical hand or two illustrating various ways in which it can prove useful?

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Progress Report

So what's happening to educational television? Here in New York it has had perhaps the roughest going anywhere in the country, largely because the Board of Regents plan for 10 state-supported TV stations failed to get financial support from the legislature.

John Crosby

Consequently, while other communities like Chicago and St. Louis were raising private funds for educational TV, New Yorkers sat around on their hands waiting for the legislature to do it for them. When that hope went glimmering, an organization called the Metropolitan Educational Association was formed to set up an educational TV station with private funds.

Well, the Metropolitan, which may in time be as well known as the Metropolitan Opera and the Metropolitan Museum, has a promise of $250,000 from the Ford Foundation if it can raise a matching $250,000 and it almost certainly can. The Metropolitan will seek $750,000 to start operations and would really like to have $1,000,000. But educational TV is far from imminent in New York City. For one thing, a bill in the legislature has a section that in effect, would ban all controversial matter. The educators say they simply couldn't teach with such a millstone around their neck.

If the bill is delayed, educational TV is at least a year away. When and if Channel 25 gets underway, it will be available to 110 schools, colleges, museums and such educational non-profit outfits with which New York City is loaded. There should be plenty of talent available.

At the moment, the most active agency in the educational TV field is New York University, a private university which is not to be confused with New York State University. I had a talk with Dr. David D. Henry, vice chancellor of N.Y.U. and a great enthusiast for educational TV. Among other things, Dr. Henry thinks educational TV can do tremendous things for the pre-school child of from two to five years.

Children in that age bracket learn faster than anyone else. Yet this group is still the great void in the American public school system. There are no free schools for this group because there isn't any money. Dr. Henry points out that, while this group is too young for numbers and letters, they rapidly absorb cultural and language concepts and attitudes toward society which are of vast help to them later on.

N.Y.U. now has four educational shows on the air all staffed by N.Y.U. teachers. Practically all teachers, it has been discovered, have a bit of ham in them. It's no problem at all to get them to undertake a television show on their own time for free. However, after the first flush of enthusiasm dies, TV teaching becomes just another chore and the teachers become restive. Eventually, Dr. Henry thinks, the teachers will have to be paid for this extra work.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

FARTHER DOWN IN DECK

PRACTICALLY every play which usually is made with the highest cards in a suit may be made also with those farther down in the deck. That applies to squeezes, throw-ins and the several coups. One of those is the so-called 'Bath coup," supposed to have been originated decades ago, in the days of Whist, during a game at the famous European watering place of that name. Generally thought of as playing low from an ace-jack in the closed hand, when the king is led from a king-queen, to lure a second lead into the combination, it also may be used a step lower, or on rare occasions, maybe two steps.

	♠ K 6 5 3 ♥ 10 5 4 2 ♦ 6 3 ♣ 7 6 4
♠ J 9 8 ♥ 9 6 ♦ Q J 9 4 ♣ K J 5 2	N W E S	♠ Q 10 7 4 ♥ K Q J 8 3 ♦ 7 ♣ Q 10 9
	♠ A 2 ♥ A 7 ♦ A K 10 8 5 2 ♣ A 8 3

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	3 NT

There you find a brilliant and imaginative player of the gambling type shooting for a top score on this tournament deal, with the idea that one more good score might win the event for him and his partner. Finding practically any kind of asset in his partner's hand, even the diamond Q, could give him a game on his funny bid.

With no knowledge of the suit-lengths, West soundly made his natural lead of the diamond Q. South, equally soundly, did all of his thinking before playing any card. Reading West as probably holding four cards of the suit, he hoped East would have a fairly high singleton, which could look like an encouraging card. He was delighted to see that worthy put the 7 on the trick, whereat he without hesitation plumped on the 8. He hoped that West, not seeing either the 5 or 2, would reckon his partner held one or both of those cards and was using the 8 as an encourager, with South making an ordinary hold-up from two or three headed by the A.

South had counted up eight positive tricks if he had won the first lead and then had given up a couple of diamonds to West—unless a suit-shift ruined him. But, if West would repeat the suit, he would have nine tricks. Sure enough, West fell for the ruse and led the diamond J to the second trick, hoping East had something like the K-10-7-5-2 and South only the A-8. The A took that trick, the K and 10 assured the running of the suit and the four side top cards completed nine and game, only game made by anybody on the deal.

Your Week-end Question

Do you understand the signal known as "the three trump echo?" Can you give definite examples of its value in actual play? Or can you construct a hypothetical hand or two illustrating various ways in which it can prove useful?

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Staff Sgt. Charles Leroy Perdew, who gave his life in Germany 9 years ago, March 13, 1945.

Dear Leroy, you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this means of expressing my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my friends, neighbors and relatives for the kindness extended to me during the illness and following the death of my beloved husband, George Kirby, Mt. Savage. I especially wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

Mrs. George Kirby,
Mt. Savage, Md.

Market Backs Down From Thursday's High Session

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The stock market backed down today in a moderate manner from the 24-year high mark reached yesterday. At the close prices were right around their lows of the session, between 1 and 2 points at the most.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 30 cents at $116.10. It was up exactly that amount yesterday at $116.40. The average yesterday broke through the 1953-54 top by 10 cents and reached the highest point since June 4, 1930.

Business fell just short of the two million mark at 1,980,000 shares. That compares with 2,050,000 shares traded yesterday.

Glenn Martin, yesterday's most active issue up 1⅛, was today's most active issue unchanged at 21⅝, on 42,400 shares.

It was followed by Pepsi Cola up ⅛ at 16½, RKO Pictures up ⅛ at 5⅝, Greyhound unchanged at 13½, and New York Central up ¼ at 23⅞.

Among losing stocks were Santa Fe, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, Johns-Manville, American Telephone (off ⅞ at 164⅜ after hitting a low of 163¾), Dow Chemical, American Woolen, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Studebaker, Boeing, United Aircraft, and Admiral.

Higher were such issues as U. S. Gypsum, Commonwealth Edison, Equitable Office Building, Textile Drug, Douglas Aircraft, and Philco.

Considerable firmness was shown by the American Stock Exchange, but many leaders were down at the close. Corporate bonds were higher in an irregular bond market. U. S. government issues in the over the counter market were mostly unchanged.

Pennsy Railroad Has $37,036,215 Income For 1953

PHILADELPHIA, March 12 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad reports 1953 net income of $37,036,215, equal to $2.81 per share of common stock.

Net income in 1952 was $35,981,364, also reported as equalling $2.81 per common share.

Taxes for 1953 were listed as $70,313,000, almost double net income.

The 1953 report showed operating revenues surpassing one billion dollars for the third successive year. The total of $1,034,394,640 was exceeded in 1951 when the PRR revenues reached $1,044,387,274.

Market Backs Down From Thursday's High Session

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The stock market backed down today in a moderate manner from the 24-year high mark reached yesterday. At the close prices were right around their lows of the session, between 1 and 2 points at the most.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 30 cents at $116.10. It was up exactly that amount yesterday at $116.40. The average yesterday broke through the 1953-54 top by 10 cents and reached the highest point since June 4, 1930.

Business fell just short of the two million mark at 1,980,000 shares. That compares with 2,050,000 shares traded yesterday.

Glenn Martin, yesterday's most active issue up 1⅛, was today's most active issue unchanged at 21⅝, on 42,400 shares.

It was followed by Pepsi Cola up ⅛ at 16½. RKO Pictures up ⅛ at 5⅝. Greyhound unchanged at 13½, and New York Central up ¼ at 23⅞.

Among losing stocks were Santa Fe, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, Johns-Manville, American Telephone (off ⅞ at 164⅜ after hitting a low of 163¾), Dow Chemical, American Woolen, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Studebaker, Boeing, United Aircraft, and Admiral.

Higher were such issues as U. S. Gypsum, Commonwealth Edison, Equitable Office Building, Textile Drug, Douglas Aircraft, and Philco.

Considerable firmness was shown by the American Stock Exchange, but many leaders were down at the close. Corporate bonds were higher in an irregular bond market. U. S. government issues in the over the counter market were mostly unchanged.

'Jack' Pollack Trial Is Transferred Here

Baltimore Man's Case Removed

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—The trial of James H. (Jack) Pollack, Democratic political leader from Baltimore's Fourth District, was ordered moved to Cumberland today.

The Circuit Court at Cumberland will decide when his trial for attempted obstruction of justice will be held.

G.C.A. Anderson, Pollack's lawyer, had sought a Southern Maryland trial for his client, but Judges Emory H. Niles and John T. Tucker found for the Western Maryland site which was recommended by State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro.

Early Trial Seen

Anderson said he would press for an early trial date. The case would be heard by one or more of the circuit judges in the area.

Pollack is accused of trying to influence testimony of witnesses in the morals trial of Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor who is a political associate of Pollack's.

Young D'Alesandro was the only one of 16 defendants in the series of morals cases to be found innocent, but was later indicted by a grand jury on charges of lying under oath at his trial.

School Leaders End Conference On Child Study

Dr. Beatty Serves As Consultant Here

A week-long Allegany County Child Study Conference ended yesterday afternoon as Dr. Walcott Beatty, the consultant, summarized some of his findings at a meeting with the entire supervisory staff of the county public school system.

Dr. Beatty is connected with the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland.

"How Children Grow And Develop" was the general theme of the conference, the last of two to be held here during the current school year.

108 Participate

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer explained that 108 teachers, about one-fifth of the county's teaching force, are enrolled in the Child Study Program. Elementary and high school teachers with one year or more of experience enroll in the three-year program.

Of 47 elementary teachers taking part 22 are in the first year, 13 in the second and 12 in the third. On the high school level there are 61 teachers, 47 in the first year, six in the second and eight in the third.

A highlight of the week-long activity was a lecture Tuesday night by Dr. Beatty at West Side School, attended by all 108 child study participants. "How Do Children Tell Us About Themselves?" was the topic for discussion.

Four Other Schools

Also during the week conference sessions were held in four other schools.

Monday afternoon the first year high school group met at Mt. Savage High School with Alfred H. Benna as leader. Tuesday afternoon the third year high school group convened at Fort Hill High School with Mrs. Nellie Hilton as leader.

Thursday afternoon the first year high school group met at Allegany High School with Raymond O. McCullough as leader. Yesterday morning elementary leaders met for a general discussion at Hill Street School in Frostburg.

Husband Jailed On Assault And Parole Charges

A Flintstone man was released under $1,000 bond yesterday after appearing before Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason, on charges of violation of parole and assault upon his wife.

A date for a hearing has not been set. William Watson Wharton was nabbed early yesterday morning by State Troopers James F. Lewis and Lynwood C. Clark after a complaint had been received at LaVale barracks that Wharton had been assaulting his wife.

The two troopers reported to the scene and Clark stood by until Lewis and Mrs. Wharton went to Flintstone for a warrant.

When the warrant had been obtained the State Police entered the house by force, took Wharton into custody and booked him at City Jail at 5:15 a. m. yesterday.

Wharton is also being charged with parole violation. On January 25 he got out of a 60-day jail term by appealing a decision of Magistrate W. E. Kines, Flintstone, during a case heard in Allegany County Circuit Court. However, he paid a fine of $200 and court costs.

Wharton had been sentenced to 60 days in jail and $100 fine and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked.

After pleading guilty to the charge before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, the fine of $200 and costs was imposed as well as a six-month term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Seats Available For Minstrelks

Plenty of good reserved seats are still available for the Minstrelks production to be held at the Maryland Theater Monday and Tuesday nights by Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks. Tickets are on sale at the Maryland Theater. Proceeds of the Minstrelks are for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

D'Alesandro Case May Come Here By Judge's Rule

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—Cumberland, Hagerstown and Frederick were mentioned today as preferred sites for the perjury trial of the 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor as Judge S. Ralph Warnken heard a petition for removal of the trial from Baltimore.

Young D'Alesandro was the only one of 16 youths accused of morals offenses against two young girls to be found innocent. A Grand Jury subsequently indicted him on a charge of lying under oath when he testified for himself at his trial.

Judge Niles ruled that Pollack could have his case moved because he had "reasonable grounds" for feeling he could not get an impartial trial here.

Pollack had argued that years of unfavorable newspaper publicity in Baltimore coupled with an unfavorable "feeling" some Supreme Bench judges allegedly felt for him would make a fair trial in Baltimore impossible.

Judge Niles said he was not passing on the charges against the judges or the local newspapers, declaring they had no bearing on the issue.

Motion Termed Reasonable

He said he was granting removal of the case simply because Pollack's petition for removal was reasonable.

"The court does not find as a fact that the defendant would be unable to obtain a fair and impartial trial in Baltimore, but his right to a removal of the case does not require such a finding," said the judge.

"In the opinion of the court, the petition is not unreasonable and the defendant is therefore entitled under the Constitution to have the case removed to a circuit court of one of the counties of the state for trial," he ruled.

LaSalle Boys Win Contest

Michael Mosner and James Fraley were declared winners for their respective classes in the annual LaSalle High School oratorical contest conducted yesterday.

Mosner was the senior winner as he delivered the oration "Spartacus To The Gladiators." At commencement in June he will be awarded the Henry Glick Memorial Medal.

Fraley was the winner in the junior competition. His subject was "Macaulay's Tribute To the Catholic Church." He will receive an award given by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert S. Lovenstein in memory of their son, Louis, who was killed in a fall from Lovers Leap on Wills Mountain several years ago.

Judges were Mrs. Richard F. McMullen, president of the LaSalle Mothers' Club; Edward McGraw, president of the LaSalle Fathers' Club, and Walter Kennedy, an attorney and member of the LaSalle class of 1941.

Other participants in the oratorical contest were Robert Feaga and Joseph Schellinger, seniors, and Joseph Niland and John Meyers, juniors.

Judge Rules On City's Liability For Water Loss

Responsible Only For Turnoff Delay

The City of Cumberland may not be held responsible for damage caused by negligent construction and maintenance of a water main which broke last August 5, but it is liable for loss resulting from possible negligent delay in stopping the flow of water from the broken pipe after the break occurred.

That was the principal point in an opinion filed yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court, in a $5,000 damage suit filed for Lewis E. Tyree, trading as Tyree Refrigeration Service, 39 Henderson Avenue, against the Mayor and City Council.

Tyree, through Attorney William J. Gunter, filed the suit in December for damage allegedly caused to his place of business by the bursting of a water main August 5 at the intersection of Baltimore Avenue and Decatur Street.

Negligence Charged

The refrigerator repairman charged two counts of negligence, (1) that the city was negligent in construction and maintenance of the water main and (2) that the city was negligent in delaying in stopping the flow of water from the broken main.

Judge Henderson sustained the city's demurrer on the first count. For his reason he cited Section 142 of the City Charter, which reads:

"The City of Cumberland shall never be liable on account of any damage, arising from or occasioned by a public work of the city unless the specific defect shall have actually been known to the Mayor or City Engineer by personal inspection for a period of at least 24 hours prior to occurence of the injury or damage, unless the attention of the Mayor or Engineer shall have been called thereto by notice thereof in writing at least 24 hours prior to occurrence of injury or damage and proper diligence has not been used to rectify the defect....."

Difficulty Expected

Continuing in the interpretation of Section 142, Judge Henderson decided that it becomes the duty of city officials to stop the flow of water once the officials have received notice of the break in the water main.

Judge Henderson concludes:

"It is apparent it may be difficult to determine damages, since under the foregoing decision the city will be responsible only for such damages as were caused by the delay and not by the original break. Possibly a demand for further particulars will make it the duty of the plaintiff to set out only the damage for which he can recover, if he is able to prove a negligent delay."

Youthful Pair Jailed Here In Gasoline Theft

Carl R. Rice, 18, of 228 Harrison Street, and a juvenile companion from Frostburg were arrested early Thursday morning by City Police and are being held in connection with the theft of gasoline from trucks belonging to the Novick Transfer Company, 816 Lafayette Avenue.

The boys were taken to the State's Attorney's office for questioning and were lodged last night in Allegany County Jail pending a hearing this morning at 10 o'clock in Trial Magistrates Court.

Investigating officers were John S. Snyder and Paul E. Penrod. City Police have been getting complaints gasoline was being taken from vehicles in that section of the city.

Early Thursday morning the two police officers said they saw the two youths in action at the transfer company.

The boys, reportedly using a car with tags from a car in a local used car lot, left the scene when they saw the police, who gave chase up Virginia Avenue to a parking lot in the rear of Keech's Pharmacy.

When the youths found themselves in a dead end, police said, they abandoned the car and climbed a fence, but were later nabbed on Frederick Street and were booked at 3:10 a. m. Thursday.

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Anna M. Neat vs. Thomas R. Neat.

Current Rains Reverse Trend In Dry Spell

March Rainfall Is Above Average

One of the longest droughts in the history of Western Maryland was interrupted this week when the March rainfall hit the 3.7 inch mark.

Yesterday's .06 inch of rain brought the March total to 0.7 inches above the three-inch average for this month, the first time since last July that rainfall has been above normal.

Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, said the drought was more severe than the dry period of 1936, and lasted two months longer.

Loss Is Heavy

In valuable water resources the drought means, Golden estimated, that the Cumberland area is short 978.58 tons of water per acre, or 235,153.64 gallons per acre.

The 1936 drought, with which the current dry spell is compared, caused this area to come up 704 tons of water short per acre.

If the trend continues, it will be welcome news to all residents of the Tri-State area, which has been plagued by the extended drought.

Supplies Improving

Supplies of water impounded in city reservoirs are increasing daily, but city officials have insisted the ban on non-essential uses must continue until enough reserves are stored in the two big city dams.

Golden released the following figures to show the effects of the 1953-54 and 1936 droughts:

	1953-54	1936	Normal
June	2.05	1.75	3.88
July	3.67	2.70	3.26
August	2.61	2.64	3.48
September	1.66	1.39	2.75
October	.87	2.20	2.53
November	1.61	3.02	2.18
December	2.09	1.46	2.47
January	1.41		2.49
February	1.14		2.34

Servicemen May Obtain Ballots

A limited supply of application cards for Maryland absentee ballots for servicemen is available at the office of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House basement.

The cards request the name, address, voting district and precinct to the best of the applicant's knowledge. The serviceman also is asked to signify that he will be 21 years old or older at the time of the election, state his choice for a party primary ballot, and list his military address.

Servicemen may obtain these cards personally or a relative may get one and mail it to the man's military address. The applications are mailed to the Secretary of State in Annapolis and subsequently are forwarded to the board's office here. Ballots for the June 28 election then are sent to the Secretary of State.

Meanwhile, Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars, report a slight increase in the number of new registrants. Yesterday nine were added. They believe many county residents buy their new automobile tags from Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat at the Court House and then go to the Board of Election Supervisors office and register.

Hornbrook, photographer for the Times-News papers, had been completing an addition to the one-story bungalow recently.

Firemen said no one was injured. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

The interior was practically a total loss.

Fog Hampers Motorists On Area Roads

Wind And Snow Forecast Today

Fog slowed down the speed of motorists along the highways in the mountainous sections of the area east and west of Cumberland last night, according to State Police at LaVale barracks.

Although the roads were a bit wet in spots they were not particularly slippery. A light mist fell in Cumberland about 6 p. m. and fog was noticeable in the mountains surrounding the city as the mercury stood at about 40 degrees.

West Virginia State Police at Romney also reported some fog in the mountains although highways were clear of ice. Pennsylvania Police said the roads in the vicinity of Bedford were all clear with the temperature at 48 degrees about 8:20 p. m. No fog was reported from that state.

Residents of the area are promised a typical March day today since the weatherman forecasts wind. The low temperature last night was expected to be in the 30s. Also forecast for the weekend is a mixture of occasional rain changing to snow flurries with wind being prevalent.

Early yesterday sleet was noticeable in the mountains west of Frostburg and east of here. The high temperature registered yesterday at Constitution Park was 36 degrees with a low of 33 degrees.

The thermometer registered 35 degrees at 7:30 p. m. and humidity at 6 p. m. was 86 degrees. Precipitation was reported as .06 of an inch.

Collections Far Below $35,000 County Goal

Allegany County Red Cross drive showed marked progress yesterday as a number of workers turned in reports, bringing the total collected and subscribed to date to $13,604.12.

By Tuesday evening, which marks the half-way period in the month-long drive, campaign leaders are hopeful that some reports will be received from the county areas, and that the soliciation in Cumberland will be much farther along than it is now. The drive to date is behind last year's, but with almost $1,800 turned in yesterday, leaders said it is indicated the campaign is gaining momentum.

14 B & O Coal Cars Derailed Near Newburg

The derailment of 14 loaded coal hoppers of an eastbound train near Newburg, W. Va., early yesterday morning delayed rail traffic on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for several hours. No one was injured.

A broken rail, according to a spokesman for the railroad, was the cause of the wreck which sent coal and hoppers across the westbound and two eastbound tracks.

The accident occurred at 1:55 a. m. on Newburg grade at Hiorra, the spokesman added, as the 13th to 26th cars of Diesel Train No. 993 left the rails.

The westbound track was cleared at 5:36 a. m. by wreck train crews from Grafton and Keyser. At 5:40 a. m. one of the eastbound tracks was cleared with the other eastbound track cleared at 7:25 a. m.

The Diplomat, an eastbound passenger train, was delayed about an hour and 10 minutes, the spokesman added. The coal train had 63 loaded hoppers out of Fairmont when the mishap occurred.

Bulldozers and cranes were used by the wrecking crews in the effort to restore normal rail traffic. Four eastbound slow freights were delayed a total of almost 14 hours while three westbound slow freights were held back a total of over six hours.

Some fast freights were also delayed for some time due to the pileup, the spokesman added.

Machinists File Suit Against National Jet

Union Seeks More Than $1 Million

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP) — A machinists' union filed a million-dollar-plus suit today against John A. Cupler II's National Jet Company, Cumberland, Md., manufacturer of precision tools.

The action was brought in Federal court here by Local Lodge 489 of the International Association Machinists.

Louis Pabst Poulton of Pasadena, Md., attorney for the union, said the suit resulted from failure of the firm to live up to an oral agreement made Feb. 6.

The agreement, said Poulton, covered working conditions, wages and other issues which resulted in a strike at the plant last November, two months after the union won a collective bargaining election.

Charge Filed With NLRB

Unfair labor practice charges were filed against the firm with the National Labor Relations Board, he said.

The union attorney said the plant continued to operate with a skeleton force during the strike but Cupler had refused to reinstate all strikers after agreement was reached last month.

In its suit the union asks one million dollars basic damages, plus $100,000 for every day since March 6, the date it contends the agreement was broken.

National Jet, which produces microscopic drills and other fine tools, normally hires about 30 or 40 workers. The staff has numbered about 15 since the strike, said Poulton.

Denies Agreement

William C. Walsh, who represents the company in negotiations, said last night the company denies an agreement had been made.

He said the union last month made a proposal on who should go back to work and who should not.

Walsh said he informed the union he thought the company would approve of the plan, but explained he could not commit the company, or give a definite answer until the following Tuesday, when the union representative was due back in Cumberland.

Walsh said the company did not approve the plan and that he had so informed the union official upon his return to Cumberland.

He added there were other parts of the contract not cleared at that time, including rules on plant discipline.

Parts of the agreement, Walsh continued, were in the form of notes which had never been reduced to language such as is used in contracts.

Walsh said the union began to negotiate a contract after it was certified in the NLRB election. He said one demand was for a union shop, which was discussed a number of times.

Plant Is Struck

A joint conference was held on the afternoon of November 12, with the union shop virtually the only issue discussed. Another conference was planned the next afternoon.

A strike occurred the morning of November 13.

Some of the workers, he said, went on strike because of the union shop issue prior to a conference on November 13 which deadlocked on the union shop issue.

He said that as a result of the workers going on strike, the working force was curtailed, leaving too few workers to complete a contract which had to be completed elsewhere.

Demand Is Dropped

The union, he said, later informed the company it would drop its union shop demand, but that meanwhile, work was lost and there were not as many jobs at the plant as before.

In succeeding negotiations, the company and the union got down to the issue of whether those who had continued to work should stay or be replaced by workers who had struck.

Walsh said officials of the company take the position that since the strike resulted in the reduction of available jobs, it was not going to let people out who had stayed with them, and put in those who had left the employment of the firm.

'Jack' Pollack Trial Is Transferred Here

Baltimore Man's Case Removed

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—The trial of James H. (Jack) Pollack, Democratic political leader from Baltimore's Fourth District, was ordered moved to Cumberland today.

The Circuit Court at Cumberland will decide when his trial for attempted obstruction of justice will be held.

G.C.A. Anderson, Pollack's lawyer, had sought a Southern Maryland trial for his client, but Judges Emory H. Niles and John T. Tucker found for the Western Maryland site which was recommended by State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro.

Early Trial Seen

Anderson said he would press for an early trial date. The case would be heard by one or more of the circuit judges in the area.

Pollack is accused of trying to influence testimony of witnesses in the morals trial of Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor who is a political associate of Pollack's.

Young D'Alesandro was the only one of 16 defendants in the series of morals cases to be found innocent, but was later indicted by a grand jury on charges of lying under oath at his trial.

School Leaders End Conference On Child Study

Dr. Beatty Serves As Consultant Here

A week-long Allegany County Child Study Conference ended yesterday afternoon as Dr. Walcott Beatty, the consultant, summarized some of his findings at a meeting with the entire supervisory staff of the county public school system.

Dr. Beatty is connected with the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland.

"How Children Grow And Develop" was the general theme of the conference, the last of two to be held here during the current school year.

108 Participate

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer explained that 108 teachers, about one-fifth of the county's teaching force, are enrolled in the Child Study Program. Elementary and high school teachers with one year or more of experience enroll in the three-year program.

Of 47 elementary teachers taking part 22 are in the first year, 13 in the second and 12 in the third. On the high school level there are 61 teachers, 47 in the first year, six in the second and eight in the third.

A highlight of the week-long activity was a lecture Tuesday night by Dr. Beatty at West Side School, attended by all 108 child study participants. "How Do Children Tell Us About Themselves?" was the topic for discussion.

Four Other Schools

Also during the week conference sessions were held in four other schools.

Monday afternoon the first year high school group met at Mt. Savage High School with Alfred H. Benna as leader. Tuesday afternoon the third year high school group convened at Fort Hill High School with Mrs. Nellie Hilton as leader.

Thursday afternoon the first year high school group met at Allegany High School with Raymond O. McCullough as leader. Yesterday morning elementary leaders met for a general discussion at Hill Street School in Frostburg.

D'Alesandro Case May Come Here By Judge's Rule

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—Cumberland, Hagerstown and Frederick were mentioned today as preferred sites for the perjury trial of the 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor as Judge S. Ralph Warnken heard a petition for removal of the trial from Baltimore.

Judge Warnken said he would announce his decision next Monday.

Defense counsel for Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro argued it would be impossible to obtain an impartial trial here because of news stories about his case.

Young D'Alesandro was the only one of 16 youths accused of morals offenses against two young girls to be found innocent. A Grand Jury subsequently indicted him on a charge of lying under oath when he testified for himself at his trial.

Judge Niles ruled that Pollack could have his case moved because he had "reasonable grounds" for feeling he could not get an impartial trial here.

Pollack had argued that years of unfavorable newspaper publicity in Baltimore coupled with an unfavorable "feeling" some Supreme Bench judges allegedly felt for him would make a fair trial in Baltimore impossible.

Judge Niles said he was not passing on the charges against the judges or the local newspapers, declaring they had no bearing on the issue.

Motion Termed Reasonable

He said he was granting removal of the case simply because Pollack's petition for removal was reasonable.

"The court does not find as a fact that the defendant would be unable to obtain a fair and impartial trial in Baltimore, but his right to a removal of the case does not require such a finding," said the judge.

"In the opinion of the court, the petition is not unreasonable and the defendant is therefore entitled under the Constitution to have the case removed to a circuit court of one of the counties of the state for trial," he ruled.

Husband Jailed On Assault And Parole Charges

A Flintstone man was released under $1,000 bond yesterday after appearing before Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason, on charges of violation of parole and assault upon his wife.

A date for a hearing has not been set. William Watson Wharton was nabbed early yesterday morning by State Troopers James F. Lewis and Lynwood C. Clark after a complaint had been received at LaVale barracks that Wharton had been assaulting his wife.

The two troopers reported to the scene and Clark stood by until Lewis and Mrs. Wharton went to Flintstone for a warrant.

When the warrant had been obtained the State Police entered the house by force, took Wharton into custody and booked him at City Jail at 5:15 a. m. yesterday.

Wharton is also being charged with parole violation. On January 25 he got out of a 60-day jail term by appealing a decision of Magistrate W. E. Kines, Flintstone, during a case heard in Allegany County Circuit Court. However, he paid a fine of $200 and court costs.

Wharton had been sentenced to 60 days in jail and $100 fine and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked.

After pleading guilty to the charge before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, the fine of $200 and costs was imposed as well as a six-month term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Judge Rules On City's Liability For Water Loss

Responsible Only For Turnoff Delay

The City of Cumberland may not be held responsible for damage caused by negligent construction and maintenance of a water main which broke last August 5, but it is liable for loss resulting from possible negligent delay in stopping the flow of water from the broken pipe after the break occurred.

That was the principal point in an opinion filed yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court, in a $5,000 damage suit filed for Lewis E. Tyree, trading as Tyree Refrigeration Service, 39 Henderson Avenue, against the Mayor and City Council.

Tyree, through Attorney William J. Gunter, filed the suit in December for damage allegedly caused to his place of business by the bursting of a water main August 5 at the intersection of Baltimore Avenue and Decatur Street.

Negligence Charged

The refrigerator repairman charged two counts of negligence, (1) that the city was negligent in construction and maintenance of the water main and (2) that the city was negligent in delaying in stopping the flow of water from the broken main.

Judge Henderson sustained the city's demurrer on the first count. For his reason he cited Section 142 of the City Charter, which reads:

"The City of Cumberland shall never be liable on account of any damage, arising from or occasioned by a public work of the city unless the specific defect shall have actually been known to the Mayor or City Engineer by personal inspection for a period of at least 24 hours prior to occurence of the injury or damage, unless the attention of the Mayor or Engineer shall have been called thereto by notice thereof in writing at least 24 hours prior to occurrence of injury or damage and proper diligence has not been used to rectify the defect....."

Difficulty Expected

Continuing in the interpretation of Section 142, Judge Henderson decided that it becomes the duty of city officials to stop the flow of water once the officials have received notice of the break in the water main.

Judge Henderson concludes:

"It is apparent it may be difficult to determine damages, since under the foregoing decision the city will be responsible only for such damages as were caused by the delay and not by the original break. Possibly a demand for further particulars will make it the duty of the plaintiff to set out only the damage for which he can recover, if he is able to prove a negligent delay."

Youthful Pair Jailed Here In Gasoline Theft

Carl R. Rice, 18, of 228 Harrison Street, and a juvenile companion from Frostburg were arrested early Thursday morning by City Police and are being held in connection with the theft of gasoline from trucks belonging to the Novick Transfer Company, 816 Lafayette Avenue.

The boys were taken to the State's Attorney's office for questioning and were lodged last night in Allegany County Jail pending a hearing this morning at 10 o'clock in Trial Magistrates Court.

Investigating officers were John S. Snyder and Paul E. Penrod. City Police have been getting complaints gasoline was being taken from vehicles in that section of the city.

Early Thursday morning the two police officers said they saw the two youths in action at the transfer company.

The boys, reportedly using a car with tags from a car in a local used car lot, left the scene when they saw the police, who gave chase up Virginia Avenue to a parking lot in the rear of Keech's Pharmacy.

When the youths found themselves in a dead end, police said, they abandoned the car and climbed a fence, but were later nabbed on Frederick Street and were booked at 3:10 a. m. Thursday.

Current Rains Reverse Trend In Dry Spell

March Rainfall Is Above Average

One of the longest droughts in the history of Western Maryland was interrupted this week when the March rainfall hit the 3.7 inch mark.

Yesterday's .06 inch of rain brought the March total to 0.7 inches above the three-inch average for this month, the first time since last July that rainfall has been above normal.

Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, said the drought was more severe than the dry period of 1936, and lasted two months longer.

Loss Is Heavy

In valuable water resources the drought means, Golden estimated, that the Cumberland area is short 978.58 tons of water per acre, or 235,153.64 gallons per acre.

The 1936 drought, with which the current dry spell is compared, caused this area to come up 704 tons of water short per acre.

If the trend continues, it will be welcome news to all residents of the Tri-State area, which has been plagued by the extended drought.

Supplies Improving

Supplies of water impounded in city reservoirs are increasing daily, but city officials have insisted the ban on non-essential uses must continue until enough reserves are stored in the two big city dams.

Servicemen May Obtain Ballots

A limited supply of application cards for Maryland absentee ballots for servicemen is available at the office of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House basement.

The cards request the name, address, voting district and precinct to the best of the applicant's knowledge. The serviceman also is asked to signify that he will be 21 years old or older at the time of the election, state his choice for a party primary ballot, and list his military address.

Servicemen may obtain these cards personally or a relative may get one and mail it to the man's military address. The applications are mailed to the Secretary of State in Annapolis and subsequently are forwarded to the board's office here. Ballots for the June 28 election then are sent to the Secretary of State.

Meanwhile, Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermott, registrars, report a slight increase in the number of new registrants. Yesterday nine were added. By Tuesday evening, which marks the half-way period in the month-long drive, campaign leaders are hopeful that some reports will be received from the county areas, and that the soliciation in Cumberland will be much farther along than it is now. 14 B & O Coal Cars Derailed Near Newburg

The derailment of 14 loaded coal hoppers of an eastbound train near Newburg, W. Va., early yesterday morning delayed rail traffic on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for several hours. No one was injured.

A broken rail, according to a spokesman for the railroad, was the cause of the wreck which sent coal and hoppers across the westbound and two eastbound tracks.

The accident occurred at 1:55 a. m. on Newburg grade at Hiorra, the spokesman added, as the 13th to 26th cars of Diesel Train No. 993 left the rails.

The westbound track was cleared at 5:36 a. m. by wreck train crews from Grafton and Keyser. At 5:40 a. m. one of the eastbound tracks was cleared with the other eastbound track cleared at 7:25 a. m.

The Diplomat, an eastbound passenger train, was delayed about an hour and 10 minutes, the spokesman added. The coal train had 63 loaded hoppers out of Fairmont when the mishap occurred.

Bulldozers and cranes were used by the wrecking crews in the effort to restore normal rail traffic. Four eastbound slow freights were delayed a total of almost 14 hours while three westbound slow freights were held back a total of over six hours.

Some fast freights were also delayed for some time due to the pileup, the spokesman added.

Machinists File Suit Against National Jet

Union Seeks More Than $1 Million

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP) — A machinists' union filed a million-dollar-plus suit today against John A. Cupler II's National Jet Company, Cumberland, Md., manufacturer of precision tools.

The action was brought in Federal court here by Local Lodge 489 of the International Association Machinists.

Louis Pabst Poulton of Pasadena, Md., attorney for the union, said the suit resulted from failure of the firm to live up to an oral agreement made Feb. 6.

The agreement, said Poulton, covered working conditions, wages and other issues which resulted in a strike at the plant last November, two months after the union won a collective bargaining election.

Charge Filed With NLRB

Unfair labor practice charges were filed against the firm with the National Labor Relations Board, he said.

The union attorney said the plant continued to operate with a skeleton force during the strike but Cupler had refused to reinstate all strikers after agreement was reached last month.

In its suit the union asks one million dollars basic damages, plus $100,000 for every day since March 6, the date it contends the agreement was broken.

National Jet, which produces microscopic drills and other fine tools, normally hires about 30 or 40 workers. The staff has numbered about 15 since the strike, said Poulton.

Denies Agreement

William C. Walsh, who represents the company in negotiations, said last night the company denies an agreement had been made.

He said the union last month made a proposal on who should go back to work and who should not.

Walsh said he informed the union he thought the company would approve of the plan, but explained he could not commit the company, or give a definite answer until the following Tuesday, when the union representative was due back in Cumberland.

Walsh said the company did not approve the plan and that he had so informed the union official upon his return to Cumberland.

He added there were other parts of the contract not cleared at that time, including rules on plant discipline.

Parts of the agreement, Walsh continued, were in the form of notes which had never been reduced to language such as is used in contracts.

Walsh said the union began to negotiate a contract after it was certified in the NLRB election. He said one demand was for a union shop, which was discussed a number of times.

Plant Is Struck

A joint conference was held on the afternoon of November 12, with the union shop virtually the only issue discussed. Another conference was planned the next afternoon.

A strike occurred the morning of November 13.

Some of the workers, he said, went on strike because of the union shop issue prior to a conference on November 13 which deadlocked on the union shop issue.

He said that as a result of the workers going on strike, the working force was curtailed, leaving too few workers to complete a contract which had to be completed elsewhere.

Demand Is Dropped

The union, he said, later informed the company it would drop its union shop demand, but that meanwhile, work was lost and there were not as many jobs at the plant as before.

In succeeding negotiations, the company and the union got down to the issue of whether those who had continued to work should stay or be replaced by workers who had struck.

Walsh said officials of the company take the position that since the strike resulted in the reduction of available jobs, it was not going to let people out who had stayed with them, and put in those who had left the employment of the firm.
